Many Persons More Interested in Dry Law Change Than in Prosperity

WETS WELL ORGANIZED

Hoover More Violently Criticized Than Any President Since Wilson

New York —(CPA)—What are the issues in the national campaign this year? This query when put to political leaders usually draws this answer—"prohibition and the business depression."

But on the stump and in the conversation on politics wherever there are political gatherings, the outstanding characteristic of the campaign is that some people are much more interested in having the 18th amendment repealed, or at least some modification, than in economic arguments. Unquestionably the wet and dry issue is cutting into several states in curious ways and there is a good deal more passion about it among the wets than there has been in any preceding election.

The wets are not only better organized than they were but far more aggressive and outspoken. It remains to be seen whether this reflects a minority view or whether there has been a real change in sentiment. Invariably the prohibition issue is complicated by the question of personality of the candidate or economic discontent, so that it will be very difficult to tell exactly what the segment of the country which has been pro-prohibition.

MORE CLEAR ON SLUMP
There is far more clarity with respect to public sentiment on the business depression. Not since the latter part of the Wilson administration, produced a feeling of irritation that was let loose in 1920, has there been such violent criticism of a national administration as one hears nowadays. Businessmen discuss the popularity or the unpopularity of President Hoover with the utmost frankness and while there has been in the last few weeks a noticeable change on the part of many business men, who are beginning to feel that the depression is world-wide and that hence the president cannot be blamed, nevertheless a widespread prejudice has been built up on Mr. Hoover's alleged lack of leadership in a crisis.

Somehow or other the criticism which is current about Mr. Hoover

EXECUTE MAN ACCUSED OF TRAIN WRECK PLOT

Ciudad, Chihuahua, Mexico.—(AP)—A firing squad has ended the life of Francisco Ruiz Cardenas, whom federal troops caught in the act of moving a rail from the Mexico City-El Paso railroad line, near here.

The military escort of the passenger train Tuesday discovered him near Jimenez allegedly taking the rail from the ties. They brought him to Chihuahua City, tried him before a court martial, which convicted him, and he was executed at dawn Thursday.

Several attempts have been made to derail trains in various parts of Mexico during the past few weeks by similar tactics, but Ruiz is the first to be captured and punished for the act.

MORAN UNPURTURBED BY FEDERAL QUESTIONING

Chicago.—(AP)—Taking the hurdles of a vacancy hearing and questioning by federal agents jauntily, George (Bugs) Moran, once notorious gang leader, was at liberty today again on bail.

Moran was before Judge John H. Lyle on the vacancy hearing yesterday following his release just before he was to have been taken to a jail cell the day before. He had obtained his temporary freedom by a friend's posting of $10,000 bonds.

A change of venue request to Judge Lyle brought a reassignment of the action. Government agents questioned him next but he refused to give any information.

Speedboat Sunk By U. S. Coast Guard

Another Is Seized; No Booze Found

Crew of Craft Demolished by Gunfire Reported to Be Unharmful

New London, Conn.—(AP)—The speedboat Helen, believed to be a rum runner, was fired on and sunk early today off Napatree point, near Watch Hill, R. I., and the speedboat Luebos was captured by coast guardsmen. Both craft are of Bridgeport.

Lieut. Jewell, in command of the C. G. 134, one of two boats which participated in the engagement, said that the crew of the Helen, a 35-footer, was unharmful. The other patrol boat engaged in the affair was the C. G. 234.

No liquor was found aboard the Luebos. This craft was being towed to the local coast guard base. The number of men aboard the two boats and their names were not revealed.

TWO KILLED WHEN AIRPLANE PLUNGES

Five Houses Set Ablaze When Ship Crashes Shortly After Takeoff

Paris.—(AP)—Gilbert Lane, formerly an American aviator and his French flying companion, Pierre Nicolas, were killed today when a plane in which they were taking off from Le Bourget for Cairo and Addis Ababa crashed and was destroyed by flames.

They were going to Addis Ababa to witness the coronation of Ras Tafari, emperor of Ethiopia.

The plane rose into the air but seemed to labor and suddenly fell in a straight dive.

Five houses took fire and the gasoline tanks of the machine blew up. Four dwellings were destroyed, but without other casualties.

The bodies of the birdmen were unrecognizable when taken from the ruins. Lane, who was a naturalized Frenchman, is said to have had no family in America. He was 31 years old and unmarried. He had been employed by a French talking film company to take pictures of the coronation of Ras Tafari.

He was a lieutenant in the American aviation service after the United States entered the World war, and was decorated with the legion of honor military medal and the croix de guerre.

GEN. PERSHING WARNS AGAINST UNPREPAREDNESS

New York.—(AP)—A warning to the United States that it will be caught unprepared in event of another war is sounded by General John J. Pershing in an interview published in the Country Home.

"People say we should disarm," the leader of the American armies in the World war is quoted as saying. "America already is disarmed. Good men and good women tell us that we should throw away our armaments. We have very little to throw away."

Declaring no one hates war more than he does, he says:

"I pray fervently that there will be no more war. With all my soul I hate it. I have seen it in all its horrors. The great war was called a war to end war. Yet, in these dozen years, think how many disasters have been fought and how many others seem to be in the process of making."

"We know that we will not provoke war. But what is there in history which authorizes us to conclude that someone else will not provoke one of these days?"

THINKS MISSING MEN
HIDING INSIDE PRISON

Leavenworth, Kas.—(AP)—A search continued inside the federal penitentiary walls today for Stanley Brown and Harry Sullivan, prisoners, missing since the 5 o'clock clock Wednesday afternoon. Warden Thomas B. White reiterated his opinion that the men are hiding inside the prison.

All gate guards were questioned and asserted the missing men, who were employed inside the prison, had not passed out. White believes hunger and thirst will cause them to surrender.

Brown was received Jan. 18, 1925, from Fargo, N. D., to serve 15 years for postoffice robbery; and Sullivan entered the prison July 18, 1928, from San Francisco, to serve 15 years for robbery of the mails.

TWO FOLD AIM OUTLINED IN RELIEF WORK

Woods Prepares to Find as Many Jobs as Possible and Help Other Needy

BULLETIN
Washington.—(AP)—Col. Arthur Woods, government unemployment relief director, said today that approval of public works, proposals to totaling approximately $450,000,000 to be voted on in about 20 states in November would result in stimulation of industry and go far toward relieving unemployment.

Washington.—(AP)—The problem of unemployment will be attacked by Colonel Arthur Woods, government relief director, with a view, first, to find employment for as many persons as possible and, second, to provide relief in those cases where employment is not available.

Although stressing the task of feeding the unemployed was one for local organizations to handle, Colonel Woods said the federal government would assist in aiding the states to work out plans to increase the number of jobs and to care for families which do not have a breadwinner.

He announced he had obtained the services of Fred C. Croxton, Columbus, Ohio, to cooperate with the government of states in the middle west. Croxton, 36 years old, was largely responsible for a successful plan worked out in Ohio to take care of the unemployed.

Woods said the most seriously affected region appeared to be the Great Lakes states and Croxton would work in them. He expects to appoint about three other regional directors to cooperate with the states.

"Our main aim now is to intensify efforts and stimulate renewed activity to get over the winter," Woods said. "I expect to continue the admirable policies and the organization set up a year ago by President Hoover with states and industries. The results accomplished in this way greatly reduced what would otherwise have been overwhelming unemployment during the past year as they have prevented acute distress up to this time."

TWO FOLD PROGRAM
The problem embraces two phases—the first is unemployment, the second, provision of relief. Those cases where employment is not available. The first is obviously very much to be desired, but the last will be necessary also.

"There are two directions in which more intensive organizations can work. One is geographical—that is, through the nation, the states, municipalities and the counties. The other is by industry. I shall aim to cooperate in both ways, with the states, municipalities and with committees on the one hand, and with leaders of the different industries on the other."

"What is needed is recognition of the obligations of every man and woman to his neighbor and to use this in team work to carry through the winter."

Questioned whether it would be necessary for President Hoover to convene congress in special session before the December session, Woods said: "My preliminary judgment is that a special session of congress is not necessary."

French Priest Describes Looting Of Chinese City

Shanghai.—(AP)—A first-hand account of the massacre at Kian and the kidnapping and torture of Catholic missionaries there was related here today by the Rev. Father de Jennis, French priest, who estimated the number slain at 2,000.

The Rev. Father de Jennis and the Italian Bishop Magnani of the Lazarist mission at Kian, were among the 15 missionaries kidnapped when Communists overran the central Kiangsi province city Oct. 5. The bishop and the French priest were released and sent to Kiukiang to carry the demand of the Reds for ransom money amounting to $100,000,000 Mexican ($2,500,000 American money).

Father de Jennis said Chinese reports that 3,000 persons had been slaughtered were "gross exaggerations" and that any accounts of still greater numbers having been slain were "baseless and imaginary."

As the result of beatings at the hands of Reds who used strips of iron to inflict torture, Bishop Magnani was unable to relate his experiences. Father de Jennis, a middle-aged man in perfect health, easily withstood the experience, however, and related how the Reds overran the city.

Communists numbering 20,000 entered Kian on the morning of Oct. 5. Father de Jennis said, capturing the city and taking control of everything.

THREE BANDITS LOOT
ILLINOIS MAIL TRUCK

Escape With Bag Containing $17,000 in Daring Daylight Holdup

Argo, Ill.—(AP)—Three bandits robbed a mail truck here today and escaped with a bag containing $17,000.

The truck had received the morning mail from the depot and started for the postoffice two blocks away, when it was forced to the curb by a black sedan. Two bandits emerged with sawed off shotguns, and while the guarded Ralph Devere, the driver, the other sorted through the mail until he found the bag he desired. He tossed it into the sedan in which the third remained seated and drove off toward Joliet.

Police officers said it was known the consignment was of $17,000, but whether it was cash or securities had not been announced. The empty bag was found shortly after at a crossing between Argo and Lyons, where the flight was delayed by a long freight train.

PREPARE TO RESUME
CONGRESSIONAL PROBES

Washington.—(AP)—Congressional investigations, new and old, will swing into action soon after the Nov. 4 election brings a halt to the campaigning activities of members.

Two new senate inquiries will get underway during November—one dealing with the banking system, the other with leases of postoffice buildings. The senate's study of campaign expenditures and the house investigation of Communist activities will resume full sway.

Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, chairman of the senate committee directed to inquire into the banking system, has set Nov. 15 for opening these hearings.

Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, is chairman of the committee which will examine leases of government temporary postoffice buildings. While no date for these hearings has been fixed, his workers are prepared to open hearings early next month.

PANTAGES' RETRIAL
AGAIN UP IN COURT

San Francisco.—(AP)—The state supreme court yesterday granted the petition of Attorney General U. S. Webb for a reconsideration of the appellate court's order giving Alexander Pantages a retrial on an assault charge.

The theatre magnate was convicted in Los Angeles of assaulting Eugene Price, 37-year-old dancer. The appellate court granted him a new trial.

The petition by the attorney general contained the same points argued unsuccessfully in asking the appellate court to reconsider its decision.

It was argued that the appellate court's ruling was permitted to stand and would result in a procedure in assault cases. It was contended this would be "a hardship on the women of the state."

The rehearing will be held during the December calendar in Los Angeles.

JOHN K. KLINE IS DEAD AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

Editor of Post-Crescent Succumbs in Green Bay Hospital

John Kenneth Kline, 55, president and editor of the Appleton Post-Crescent and vice president and editor of the Green Bay Press-Gazette, died at 10:15 last night at St. Vincent hospital, Green Bay, after an illness of about ten days.

Mr. Kline was taken to the hospital yesterday morning suffering from an infection resulting from influenza. He had been ill since Oct. 14 but his condition did not become alarming until last Monday.

He had contracted a cold something over two weeks ago but recovered sufficiently to return to his office in Green Bay for a few days, but a week ago Tuesday he was stricken again and was compelled to take to his bed.

Arrangements for the funeral had not been completed at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The body now is at the Schauer and Schumacher funeral home where it will remain until a few hours before the funeral service.

Active bearers at the funeral will be Joseph Horner, Jr., A. B. Turnbull, V. I. Minahan, Dr. W. W. Kelly, Louis H. Barkhausen and R. P. Shortz, the latter of Signaw, Mich. Wagner and Donald O. Daube.

TO APPLETON IN 1920
Mr. Kline's contact with Appleton began in 1920, when, with A. B. Turnbull and other associates he acquired the Appleton Post. Shortly after the purchase of that paper the Appleton Evening Crescent also was acquired and the two newspapers were consolidated with Mr. Kline as president and editor.

Mr. Kline entered newspaper work as a reporter for the Indianapolis Sentinel, Indianapolis, Ind., shortly after leaving the University of Indiana. His progress in the profession was rapid, rising to executive positions in a relatively short time.

OUTSTANDING WRITER
As an editorial writer, Mr. Kline was outstanding in the middle west. His editorials on national and international affairs were scholarly.

Two Accused
Of Slaying
Denver Girl

First Degree Murder Charges Brought Against Woman, Brother-in-law

Denver.—(AP)—First degree murder charges were filed today against Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin and her brother-in-law, Frank O'Loughlin, accused of the slaying of the woman's step daughter, 10-year-old Leona O'Loughlin.

With Detective Captain Bert Clark claiming an admission of guilt from Mrs. O'Loughlin, police today sought a complete solution to the child murder mystery.

The investigation was pushed in the face of a public communication to the courts, members of the bar and the citizens of Colorado, from two former justices of the supreme court protesting as "inhuman and oppressive" police treatment of the woman prisoner.

Police said they were on the verge of clearing up the details of the murder yesterday when their questioning of Mrs. O'Loughlin was broken off by a court order admitting her attorney for a conference with the woman.

Chief of Police Robert F. Reed said Mrs. O'Loughlin had implicated three others in the murder. He said that the step-mother who had been called for five days, finally cried: "I did it—I alone am responsible—take me out and hang me—I did all the cooking at the house. I cooked rice and the glass—"

At this point, the chief said, the arrival of the attorney interrupted the statement.

He said the "level-headed way in which business in general has weathered the current recession" is most assuring and shows that the underlying foundations of its structure are sound.

Censorship Lifted and News of Startling Developments Is Broadcast

BULLETIN
Washington.—(AP)—An official dispatch to the state department from the American embassy in Rio de Janeiro, filed at 11 o'clock a. m. today was said by Secretary Stimson to have made no mention of the governmental overthrow in that country.

The secretary said the communication indicated the situation in Rio was normal, although he said it contained information that there were various rumors around the city concerning an imminent change of government.

The secretary declined to discuss the Brazilian situation further and did not state whether the American embassy in Rio had been instructed to file more detailed information.

Soa Paulo, Brazil.—(AP)—A white flag was run up on the government building shortly before 3 o'clock this afternoon, indicating that the revolutionary movement had been successful.

At 2:40 p. m. firing against the government palace began and fifteen minutes later the white flag was run up.

The firing in the district where the military barracks, are located ceased and the crowds which had fled again appeared on the streets. Apparently all was over.

As soon as the first shots were fired against the government palace, the crowds scattered and took refuge anywhere that seemed to offer shelter. All business houses put up iron shutters while the street cars were withdrawn from service.

The firing was in the center of the city but it was believed to be more in the nature of a demonstration than as a real attack which might result in bloodshed.

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.—(AP)—The government of President Washington Luis, which for three weeks has been fighting a widespread revolutionary movement in Brazil, was overthrown today and the president resigned.

The blow which overthrew the administration was struck by a group of army and navy officers in Rio de Janeiro itself, a provisional headquarters being set up and a proclamation being issued to all Brazilians to end the civil warfare now in progress and to establish peace again.

The coup came with dramatic swiftness shortly after midnight. Military police and some troops taking their positions around the presidential residence and cutting off traffic.

General Menna Barreto, head of the Rio de Janeiro garrison, acting in the name of a civil and military committee, went to the president and demanded his resignation, but for many hours the latter refused to step out of office.

During the early hours of the day the city was quiet, but later gangs of hoodlums made their way through the main streets and attacked the offices of two newspapers which had been supporters of the government. Furniture was thrown out of upper floors and was burned.

After his resignation Washington Luis gave himself up to General Azevedo who made himself responsible for the former president's safety.

Reports received in Rio de Janeiro from Soa Paulo, stronghold of the political group surrounding Washington Luis, indicated that Dr. Juho Prestes, president-elect, who has his headquarters there would quit the field.

News of the coup was sent out by radio through the military committee and the strict censorship was lifted in order that the latest developments might be sent out of the country.

Later the provisional headquarters of the military committee issued a proclamation denouncing the civil warfare of the past three weeks and calling for peace.

The proclamation called upon all Brazilians, whether in favor of the government or of the revolutionaries, to support the peace movement. It called upon the revolutionaries to suspend their offensive and the federal troops to do likewise. In addition it asked that plenipotentiaries confer with the provisional government set up in Rio de Janeiro.

Joe Aiello, Capone Rival, Slain In Gang Ambush

ALCOHOL KING WALKS INTO ENEMY TRAP

Machine and Other Guns Carefully Hidden Near Friend's Apartment

Chicago—(AP)—Gangster guns, silent in Chicago for some time, opened up again last night and removed Joe Aiello, one of the few remaining rivals of Alphonse Capone from the picture of Chicago's crime.

Aiello, reputed alcohol king, partner of George (Bugs) Moran and with Moran listed by the Chicago crime commission, as a "public enemy" was shot and killed by a gang of men, number unknown, as he left the apartment of Patsy Presto, an importer, in N. Kolmar-ave.

Seventeen or more bullets were fired into the gang leader from machine and other guns secreted in three different positions, as Aiello walked into what the police said was one of the most elaborate assassination plots in gangland history.

As he stepped out of the Presto apartment, presumably to enter a cab that was waiting to take him and Presto to his home, machine gun fire opened from a third floor window of an apartment across the street. Aiello turned and fled back into the vestibule, attempted to arouse someone in the apartment, finding his way blocked by locked doors. He fled into the apartment court yard only to meet the fire of machine guns coming from a window of a building to the north. Fleeing to the rear of the court in an attempt to escape over a back fence, he ran into a fusillade of shots coming from the basement of the building housing the Presto apartment.

A police sergeant and James Duane, a cab driver, who had responded to a previous call from Mrs. Presto for a cab to take Aiello and her husband to Aiello's home, took the wounded man to a hospital, but he died before arriving.

Thus was added another victim to the long list of gangsters slain in the inter-tribe strife that had its beginning in the slaying of Dion O'Bannion in 1924 and which included the machine gun slaying of seven followers of Moran a year ago last St. Valentine's day in a N. Clark-st garage.

LINK WITH LINGLE?
Various theories and beliefs were advanced by the authorities in a possible explanation of gangland's latest slaying. One of these was that Aiello's death might have had some connection with the slaying last June 9 of Alfred Lingle, a reporter for the Chicago Tribune, known as a friend of Capone.

Some officials said they suspected Capone, and mentioned the hostility between Aiello and Capone in support of their suspicions.

Theories were that Aiello's assassination might have been prompted by his wish to control the destinies of the Unione Siciliana, which was at one time dominated by his friend, Tony Lombardo, who was killed at Madison and Dearborn-sts. some years ago. Another report was that detectives had hinted that a New York gang, headed by a man known as "Joe the Boss" and believed connected with the unions, might have been involved.

Shortly after the slaying two men were reported seen running from the front of the West End building, one of them carrying a machine gun. They fled in a sedan. A few seconds later another machine, bearing two men, was reported to have followed the sedan. Later an automobile, with its license plates removed and its engine numbers obliterated, was found burning in another section of the city.

The police said they learned that the apartment from which the firing first began was rented by a young man ten days ago, indicating that Aiello's death had been plotted long in advance of last night's shooting.

Aiello was 39 years of age, which is considered old for a man engaged in gangland activities. He was the second of the "public enemies" to meet death since the crime commission issued its list of undesirable last April. The other was Jack Zuta, who was slain last August in a resort in Wisconsin.

Presto, who at one time was a business partner of Lombardo, disappeared following the shooting and was being hunted today by the police. One report said that he was believed to have been wounded. Witnesses said they saw him fall and noted that he was dragged to his feet by several men who carried him into one of the motor cars used by the assassins.

OTHER VICTIMS
Chicago—(AP)—Brief has been the tenure of the northside gang chiefs on their profitable racketeering domain. Guns of rivals in addition to scores of minor racketeers and the seven slain in the St. Valentine's day massacre have swept from their seat of power:
Nov. 10, 1924—Dion O'Bannion.
Aug. 26, 1925—Tony Spano.
Oct. 11, 1925—Earl (Hymie) Weiss.
Patrick Murray.
April 4, 1927—Vincent Drucel.
Feb. 14, 1929—the seven Moran gangsters.
July 22, 1929—Peter (Ashcan) Inzerio.
Aug. 1, 1929—Jack Zuta.

George (Bugs) Moran, who is reputed to have shared with Zuta, the control of the rich racketeering province, is today free on $10,000 bonds on a warranty charge and generally considered "out" so far as any gangland authority is concerned.

CITY TRUCK RUNS OVER FOOTBALL; BOYS ENTER CLAIM

And this time the city is really in a jam. Carl Becker, city clerk, found that out when a large delegation of the city's most important citizens walked in on him yesterday afternoon with quivering lips and fire in their eyes. He pacified them as best he could, and invited them to present their case at the next council meeting.

It seems that at the junction between the landing of the St. Mary sixth grade football on the pavement and its recovery by a sixth grader a city truck mercilessly mowed down the ball—$100 and the youngsters went into a huddle, and shortly after appeared at city hall—some grief-stricken, some indignant, all bent on one thing—restitution. The clerk weighed the case carefully, and then advised them to present a claim to the city. In a short time they returned with a carefully worded claim against the city of Appleton for $850, $150 being knocked off of the original price because "the ball had been kicked that much worth so far this fall."

RUSSIAN ORDERS IN UNITED STATES SHOW SHARP DROP

Soviets Antagonized by "Hedging" Attitude in This Country

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press

New York—Orders anticipated by American manufacturers from the Soviet government have not materialized. Russia has been a consistent purchaser of domestic products for many months, but those purchases have been sharply curtailed and are not likely to be resumed, at least in the near future.

News has begun to percolate to American financiers from Russian sources and from other trading centers in Europe that the reason for this is the opposition which was aroused by the short selling of wheat on the part of the Russian government through agencies in this country.

The Russian government takes the stand that it was not its intention to depress American wheat. It was "hedging," its representatives say, and merely saw what it thought was an opportunity to make a very sizeable profit in market speculation. The fact that the operation was not viewed in this light, it is reported from Europe, has aroused considerable animosity in Moscow.

EFFECTS PURCHASES
To this animosity has been added the resentment felt over the activities of the Fish committee investigating communist activities which has been holding hearings in various parts of the country. The present Russian government takes itself most seriously and the results of the activities in the grain market have had a decided effect on Russian purchases.

Moscow's policy now seems to be to do as little business with the United States as possible. Wherever it is feasible to do so, Russian purchases will be made in other countries. Russian products will be sold here only when other markets show a decided lack of advantage.

It has become known in well-informed international circles that the Russian operations also contemplated huge purchases of cotton in which Russia was prepared to hedge. In other words Russia intended to buy American cotton at present low prices and to protect itself against lower prices by hedging. This would have started a movement of cotton which would have been of some benefit to American growers, since cotton has not been moving freely, but would not have helped the price because the purchases were to be counteracted by the hedging.

CALLED OFF OPERATIONS
When the results of the grain operations became evident, the Russian bankers and their advisers prevailed on the Soviet government to avoid such dealings, pointing out that they were full of dynamite. It was also pointed out that the net profit of the Russian wheat deal amounted to less than $500,000 and that it was not worth while to play with fire for such a sum.

International bankers feel that Germany probably will benefit most from the switch of Russian trade away from the United States. Russia, it is felt, also believes she can draw on Germany for all the technical men she needs and can dispense with the services of American engineers and industrial experts. Russian governmental circles are inclined to believe that it is perfectly possible to take the American machinery already sold them and duplicate it themselves. In this they are mistaken, according to American engineers, because a vital part of the necessary information given Russia is lacking.

Eight Youthful Orators Contest For World Honors

Washington—(AP)—Eight youthful political and economic prodigies from as many different nations today toured historic Washington as friendly enemies.

Rivals for the large young oratorical contest tomorrow night, the octet interspersed last rehearsals of their respective addresses with sight-seeing.

Each of those orations won first prize in its native land. Now they are to be pitted against each other, with an extemporaneous after-speech to make known the competition.

President Herbert Hoover has accepted an invitation to open the program with a welcome address and sit on the platform with them. Already the young orators have met the president at one of his informal noon-day receptions.

Winner of a scholarship of Oxford is 17-year-old Jack Mallard German, of London, England, whose bid for the international cup is an oration on David Lloyd George.

Andre P. J. Moux, 18, of Montferand, France, has made the motto of the French republic—"Liberty, Equality, Fraternity"—his theme. Second prize student in all France in history, he wove the thread of French history into his tale of "Peoples United, Nations Reborn."

More than six feet tall, and very sturdy, Heinz Bookhacker, 17, of Wuppertal, Elberfeld, Germany, might be considered a youthful emissary to America since his expenses were paid by his government. The opening sentence of his historical oration, to be delivered in German, is: "We of the young generation want to grasp the elements of life, and to become creative."

Clemente Perez-Zanarri, 18, of Santiago, Chile, the only lad of the eight who did not make the long trip to Washington alone—will raise his voice in appreciation of those South American patriots, Bolivar and San Martin, predicting an eventual "sacred union" of all American republics.

In the French language of his family, subordinated Paul Leduc, of Quebec, will speak for Canada, and the part she is playing in international peace.

Student of law at the University of Guadalajara, Mexico, Javier Vivanco, 19, embodied in his oration a hope for a future day when "boundaries will become mere imaginary lines and governmental systems exist simply as organs for direction of social expression."

That young nation, the Irish Free state, has as its champion here William Hayes, 17, of Rathfarnham, who plans to be a professor of politics. His oration is entitled simply "Ireland."

Edmund Gullion, of Washington, D. C., the United States entry, has for his subject "John Marshall and Federal Supremacy."

REPEAL PERSONAL PROPERTY TAX, IS HAMMERSLEY PLEA

Denounces LaFollette's Efforts to Gain Office Because of "Blood"

Denouncing Phil LaFollette for his efforts to become governor because of the "blood in his veins" and scoring Progressive tax policies, Charles E. Hammersley, Democratic candidate for governor, told a crowd of about 100 people at the Eagle's hall last night that if he was given the governorship he would make an honest effort to correct some of the ills which now exist in the state.

Repeal of the personal property tax, a suit to determine whether the state has a right to manufacture and sell intoxicating liquors, consolidation of boards, bureaus and commissions, abolition of factional government; stimulation of public building to provide jobs for the unemployed, and a policy of municipal ownership, for utility companies were among the promises made by Mr. Hammersley.

"The Democrats are waging a battle of extermination against factional government," he said. "We oppose family government and governments that cost us too much money. Today our taxes have increased to $154,000,000, a boost of 700 per cent in the last 20 years and 100 per cent in the last five years. The high taxes can be laid directly at the door of the 'half-breed' Republicans who now advocate the reduction of taxes by enacting new tax laws. You can't reduce taxes that way. If I am elected I promise that the personal property tax will be repealed. It is an unfair means of taxation because a property cannot always be assessed on the same basis."

SCORES 'HALF BREEDS'
"The 'half-breeds' are promising repeal of the personal property tax. In fact, they have been promising this relief for so long that their present candidate can't even remember when the first promise was made—but we still have the tax. In addition we have scores of other taxes which have made life a burden. Farmers are now paying 30 per cent of their total income for taxes so that the Madison ring can continue its orgy of spending."

"The state already has so many employees it has to build another structure at Madison to house them. There are so many boards, commissions and bureaus that even the state department of personnel cannot tell how many employees the state is paying."

The Democratic nominee deplored the condition the state has come to under the factional government. He pointed out that 25 per cent of the taxes in 17 northern counties of the state have been returned delinquent for the last five years and yet neither the half breeds or the stalwarts have made an effort to solve the problem. He declared there was no way to reduce taxes and to stop the drunken spending of the factions but to elect a Democratic government.

Mr. Hammersley said the "rule by family" issue will be settled now either by the election of a Democratic governor or the election of LaFollette with the promise of LaFollette for 30 more years. Mr. Hammersley said he wouldn't predict before 30 years but that the people should remember Phil LaFollette has sons.

FACE 'OLD SITUATION'
"Our forefathers left Europe to escape monarchies, governments by families, and the right to rule by cause of the blood in their veins. Yet we are facing the very same situation in Wisconsin and the people should rebel against it. What right has any Wisconsin family to demand two fifths of the state's chief offices for its sons because of the 'blood in their veins.' What will the other 700,000 families in Wisconsin do if one family monopolizes all the offices."

LaFollette was scored as a dry by the Democrat nominee.

"Since the campaign has started my opponent has refused to state where he stands on the prohibition question. He merely says it's in his platform and when asked to explain that he refuses to discuss the matter further. As a matter of fact he is dry. He is supported by the Anti-Saloon league and other dregs of the state. His vote for the Eighteenth amendment and never made an effort to have it changed. His brother, who is now in the senate, has never opened his mouth in opposition to the matter."

"If I am elected I want the people to know I am opposed to a referendum. I am directly opposed to the Eighteenth amendment and I favor its repeal. I am against the old saloon, bootleggers, racketeers and speakeasies but I am in favor of the state sale and control of liquor as it is now being carried on in Ontario."

FAVORS WET SUIT
"If I am elected governor I promise at once to commence a suit to determine whether the state has a right to manufacture and sell intoxicating liquors under the Hargrave plan. This plan holds that the Eighteenth amendment can prohibit the individual from making and selling liquor but that it does not and cannot prohibit the state from entering the business. I believe the principle is sound and if I become governor I will at once bring a suit to determine its validity."

"I would use the income resulting from the state sale of liquor to reduce the huge annual tax bills."

Mr. Hammersley promised he would make an effort to stop the public utility companies from digging into the pockets of the people and bringing out their hands full of money it takes the people so long to earn. He promised he would advocate municipal ownership and sale of power and said this competition would soon force the utilities to sell their product on a basis that is much more reasonable than their present rates.

Stephen Ballist, chairman of the Outagamie County Democratic committee, introduced Mr. Hammersley,

NOTED ARTIST DIES AT NEW YORK HOME

Robert Chanler Succumbs After Long Illness With Heart Disease

Woodstock, N. Y.—(AP)—Robert Winthorpe Chanler, noted artist and former husband of Lina Cavalieri, opera singer, died at 1:30 this morning after a long illness. Mr. Chanler had been in a coma for 12 hours.

For weeks he had been confined to his summer home here under the constant care of physicians for a heart affliction. His doctors disclosed two days ago that they had been forestalled by his grave condition in a plan to take him to New York city for further treatment.

Last night it was announced the patient's condition was such as to cause fear that he would not live another day.

Chanler was a descendant of both Governor Winthrop of Massachusetts and Peter Stuyvesant, the last Dutch governor of New York.

Born 57 years ago, on Feb. 22, 1873, he ignored the advice of his family, who wanted him to follow a political career, and turned in early youth to the study of art.

His first European study was in the sculpture classes of Mariano Benlliure at Rome, but after a time he turned to painting and took a studio in Paris.

His interest in politics revived, however, upon his return to America, and he became a member of Tammany hall and eventually sheriff of Dutchess Co. It was that comparatively unimportant political post which clung to him throughout his life.

He also introduced all the other Democratic candidates for county offices.

Before the meeting at the Eagle's hall Mr. Hammersley was the guest of honor at a dinner at Hotel Northern which was attended by leading Democrats of the county. During the dinner hour the nominee was taken before the Outagamie County Medical society, which was meeting at Hotel Northern, where he made a short address. Friday Mr. Hammersley was planning to make a tour of the villages and cities of the county in company with the candidates for county offices.

life. He was known better as "Sheriff Bob" than as Robert Chanler, one of America's foremost painters of murals.

FIND SKULL OF CHIMPANZEE AT GRAIN ELEVATOR

A skull found by Richard Karweick, 1414 N. Clark-st., at the site of the new Lethen elevator, has been judged to be that of a young adult chimpanzee which had been kept in captivity. Dr. E. D. Riggs, curator of mammalian paleontology in the Field Museum of Chicago, who examined the skull upon the request of Dr. R. C. Mullenix of Lawrence college, said that if the animal had been part of a circus which had camped at the place it might have been buried there. However, in that case he felt that the bones of the skeleton should have been found also.

Dr. Briggs' examination revealed that the maxillaries and the premaxillaries were diseased and the milk teeth lost. The permanent teeth had not erupted and the cranial walls were thickened. He stated that this pathological condition is quite common among primates kept in menageries, apparently because the food does not agree with them.

Hundreds Reported Killed By Floods In Mexican State

TROOPS FLEE TO SAFETY AS WATER RISES

Commander Says "Possibly Hundreds" Caught in Onrush of Waters

Mexico City.—(AP)—Dispatches to the newspaper Excelsior from Tampico today quoted the commander of the federal garrison at Alamo, state of Tera Cruz, as saying that many persons, possibly hundreds, had died during floods there Tuesday.

Captain Alvaro Barrazo, who managed to escape from the town with his troops as the inundation looked at the disaster from high ground nearby and had seen "possibly hundreds" of persons caught in the sudden onrush of water and swept away by the river currents.

He added that the town was almost completely destroyed, although an American aviator, E. Warren, flying over what he believed to be Alamo yesterday said that several buildings were left standing and were emerging from the receding waters. Warren saw a number of persons walking around.

Barrazo and his men ached the town of Chapopote Nunez after a hard march through storm and flood-ridden country, losing their horses enroute. From Chapopote Nunez he got in touch with the commander of the garrison at Tampico and informed him of the disaster.

He said the storm commenced Sunday, Oct. 5, and kept up persistently until Tuesday of this week when the flooded rivers overflowed and inundated the town.

The "populace, panic-stricken, sought refuge in the hills but many were caught in the swirling waters. Other reports from the stricken village of San Isidro, Tumbadero, Ojito and San Miguel, had totally disappeared beneath the water, which receding had left human bodies as well as the bodies of cattle. The Penn-Mex Fuel company property at Alamo was badly damaged.

JURY ACQUITS MAN OF MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

A jury in circuit court at Chilton late Thursday afternoon returned a verdict of not guilty against William Berndt, Chicago, charged with fourth degree manslaughter. Berndt was arrested following an accident at the intersections of Highway 10 and 57 near Forest Junction on July 21 when Miss Mabel Cardy, Chicago, was fatally injured. Cardy was riding in a roadster with Charles Peters, Chicago, and her two younger brothers were in a rumble seat. Berndt's car crashed into the side of Peter's machine and Miss Cardy died several days later in a Green Bay hospital. Her two brothers also were injured and were in the hospital for several weeks. It was alleged Berndt's car failed to stop for the arterial highway but Berndt claimed he applied his brakes as soon as he saw the sign and slid through the intersection.

MERCHANTS TO GIVE LAWRENCE GRIDDERS PRIZES FOR SCORES

Saturday's football game is going to give some member of the Lawrence football team and his fraternity several prizes—providing the said Viking can score a couple of touchdowns.

The captains, Ken Laird and Paul Fischl are to be presented 17 jewel wrist watches by the Goodman Jewelers; the fraternity whose member scores the most points will get two hams from Bonini's meat market and the player scoring the first Lawrence touchdown will get a pair of shoes from the R. and S. shoe company.

All of which should be incentive enough to beat several Carroll teams.

EXECUTIVE BOARD PLANS EXPANSION PROGRAM AT MEET

Hope to Organize 37 Scout Troops in Four Counties in Near Future

Proposed expansion of valley council of boy scouts into 37 troops in four counties, Waupaca, Winnebago, Outagamie and Calumet, were discussed at the quarterly meeting of the council executive board at Hotel Marion, Clintonville, Thursday evening. A dinner preceded the business session.

F. N. Belanger, council president, in the next month or two plans to appoint a committee of business and professional men of cities where new troops will be organized. "It will be the duty of the committee to organize and launch a campaign to raise a fund for the expansion program, and possibly to secure an assistant scout executive," it was announced.

It also was decided to make application to the National Scout council for permission to operate two experimental "Cub" patrols for youngsters not yet of scouting age. Several "Cub" units are now in operation in large cities, designed for boys 9, 10 and 11 years of age.

President Belanger also was requested to appoint a committee to work out plans for a sea scouting unit for the valley council. Several requests have been received from the council from scouts of Neenah, Menasha and Appleton or organize such unit units.

MAY TRANSFER TROOP

A request from the Marion scout troop to become affiliated with the valley council instead of the Oshkosh organization was submitted. It was decided to submit the request to the regional office at Chicago. Further action will be taken by the valley council as soon as a report is received from the regional staff.

Report on court of honor ceremonies and advancement in the council during the past year was submitted by Mr. Clark. He reported that during the past year 204 tenderfoot scouts were registered, compared with the 234 tenderfoot scouts in 1929.

The greatest increase was noticeable in the higher classes, Mr. Clark stated. Last year there were 113 second class scouts, while this year there are 164. The council now is composed of 129 first class scouts, while in 1929 there were 67.

During the past year 68 merit badges were awarded, while during 1929 there were 424 badges given out to boy scouts. Last year there were 19 star scouts, while this year the council boasts of 27. In 1929 there were two life scouts, while at the present time there are nine. Last year four scouts received Eagle honors, while this year eight have been endowed with the high award.

HELIG REPORTS

A report on the scout leaders' training conference was given by Herb Helig, chairman of the committee in charge. A report on camping activities and attendance were given by Mr. Clark. He pointed out that during the past summer 200 scouts attended camps, and 43 4-H club members.

The financial report was read by Mowry Smith, Menasha. At the opening of the meeting Bert Williams, member of the Clintonville troop committee showed motion pictures of valley council boy scouts fighting forest fires at their northern camp on Florence lake.

Appleton board members at the meeting were F. N. Belanger, E. E. Cahill, E. G. Killoren, and Herb Helig. Menasha delegates were L. T. Jourdan, Mowry Smith, George Banta, Jr., Dr. J. N. Donovan and Waldo Freidland. E. D. Billings, S. J. Tillson represented Clintonville.

MAN GIVEN DIVORCE ON DESERTION CHARGE

Fred Bauer, 37, Appleton, was granted an absolute divorce by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Thursday afternoon from his wife, Gladys, 25, address unknown. Bauer charged his wife deserted him and took their infant child along. He says he does not know where she is now. The Bauers were married on April 8, 1922 at Wauskegan, Ill.

Gilbert Stocker, a student at Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill., arrived here Friday afternoon to spend the weekend with his parents. Mr. and Mrs. H. Stocker, E. Pacifico, and friends.

LUIS REGIME IS ENDED BY SUDDEN COUP

In order to bring about pacification of the government. The proclamation named five forts as headquarters of the provisional government. It was signed by Loo de Deus Menna Barreto, general of the division, and Colonel Bertholdo Klinger as adjutant.

The administration fell before a revolution which beginning Friday, Oct. 3, just three weeks ago, spread rapidly over the entire republic until but three of the major eastern seaboard states, Rio de Janeiro, São Paulo and Bahia, remained loyal to the government.

President Washington Luis, whose full name was Dr. Washington Luis Pereira de Souza, assumed office Nov. 15, 1926, and was to have served until Nov. 15 of this year when he would be succeeded by President-elect Julio Prestes who recently completed a visit to the United States.

ORIGIN OF REVOLT

The revolution broke first in the state of Rio Grande do Sul, furthermost south of the divisions which make up the Brazilian nation. Troops formed there under the leadership of Dr. Getulio Vargas, candidate of the state and defeated president in the recent national presidential elections.

The state of Santa Catharina and Paraná fell quickly into line and a large southern army was rushed to the Paraná-São Paulo border, where battles have been in progress for more than two weeks, with conflicting claims of victory. The fighting has centered about Itararé railroad point, on the São Paulo border.

In the north forces from Parahyba, one of the original revolting states, moved southward under Captain Juarez Tavora and on the night of Oct. 11 took Pernambuco, or Recife, establishing a revolutionary junta there. Captain Tavora moved southward with volunteers and gathered about him as he progressed and quickly subdued government forces in the seaboard states of Alagoas and Sergipe, almost without contest. He was last reported moving on the city of Bahia.

The revolutionary movement in central Brazil developed principally in the state of Minas Geraes, in which the central government threw most of its defending troops. In this state the Rio de Janeiro government seemed to have the best of matters and claimed victory after victory.

Dr. Julio Prestes, president-elect of Brazil, who recently made a visit to the United States and later to Europe, was elected by a majority of about 400,000 in the polling of last February. His inauguration plans were interrupted by the outbreak of the Brazilian revolution.

He resigned the office of president of São Paulo to be a candidate for the presidential post to which he was elevated by about a 4 to 1 vote.

SLAYING STARTED DISORDER

It was in the early stages of the presidential campaign that disorders in northern Brazil began to be marked. Some of these grew out of the killing of Joao Pessoa, Liberal candidate for vice president, whose slayer, Dantas, was reported to have been put to death by the revolutionists only recently.

Just as Dr. Prestes was about to embark on a warship for Washington his wife was taken ill with a heart attack, being obliged to remain behind. Later she recovered sufficiently to join him abroad. The tour which Dr. Prestes made was considered to have materially strengthened the political bonds between Brazil and the major countries he visited. Dr. Prestes was entertained by Premier Tardieu at Paris and later with his family was a guest of President Doumergue of France.

In London he was greeted at Victoria station by the Prince of Wales and was the guest of the king of Premier MacDonald and Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson.

Dr. Getulio Vargas, shortly after inception of the revolution, left his presidency of Rio Grande do Sul in the hands of Dr. Osvaldo Aranha, Liberal politician of the state and assumed personal command of the armies beating at São Paulo's back door along the Paraná state border.

A few days ago he arrived at Curitiba to take actual charge of the armies, which were calculated to approximate in the south possibly 50,000 men. General Miguel Costa was in command of the rebel vanguard and had led the insurgents in most of the fighting in the south.

The insurgent movement was based primarily on charges of a dictatorship of the metropolitan districts, including Rio de Janeiro, São Paulo and Bahia, from which the rural districts, such as Rio Grande do Sul and Santa Catharina, extraneous areas, were allegedly excluded. The Liberal party, headed by Vargas, charged they were defrauded in the last presidential election.

CHARGED EXTRAVAGANCE

Just as in other South American republics in which the governments were overthrown this year, charges of extravagance and misappropriation of public funds were made by the insurgents.

The government charged by statement and inference that the revolution was inspired by Communist agitation and cited the red flag used by the insurgents in support of their contention. The insurgents answered this charge with a statement that the red flag had always been on the flag of the Liberal party leaders in the movement. At Pernambuco, the provisional government

WOMAN'S CLUB HELDS LECTURE ON CANNING

The speaker discussed canned products, food values, methods of canning, vitamin content, and the purchase of canned foods.

MEATING GETS FINAL BIDS ON EUROPEAN TOUR

Steamship Line and Final Details to Be Announced Next Week

Final bids on the proposed tour to Europe for rural school teachers were received Friday morning by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, from the steamship lines about a dozen railroads. However, there are so many details of the various bids to be considered that the awarding of the contract will not take place until early next week.

One thing was apparent after a cursory examination of the bids—Mr. Meating's promise that the tour would cost less than $250 will be fulfilled. This means that the entire trip, which will take from 31 to 33 days, including the visits to England and France, sightseeing tours, hotels and meals, transportation, etc., will be included in the price.

Each of the bidding companies has outlined its sightseeing tours, listed menus which the teachers are to receive on shipboard, and fully detailed all plans for handling the large crowd. All these details must be considered by Mr. Meating before he finally decides on the company which is to receive the business.

Under the meantime letters continue to pour into his office from every section of the state. Teachers residing in more than 80 cities in the state want to make the trip. One letter Friday morning was from Texarkana, Texas, from a teacher who read about the trip in a newspaper there.

Other letters received include one from South Dakota, one from Washington, D. C., one from Grand Rapids, Mich., one from Louisville, Ky., and several from Illinois. It is estimated that at least half of Outagamie's rural school teachers will be swelled by groups of teachers from other Fox river valley counties. Mr. Meating designed the trip primarily for rural school teachers of this and neighboring counties and their reservations are to be honored first.

As soon as it is definitely known which company will handle the tour arrangements will be completed for the teachers to pay for their passages in small monthly installments through an Appleton bank. As the number of people who can make the trip will be limited it will be necessary to honor reservations in the order in which they are received, giving rural school teachers preference.

Mr. Meating expects to announce early next week the complete details of the trip, with the final cost and all other plans.

Issued emphatic denial that there was a Communist tinge to the movement.

Throughout the movement claimed that it had the movement under control. As late as Wednesday night dispatches from São Paulo and Rio de Janeiro, said that except for arrival of occasional batches of wounded the two cities were calm and normal and that it was almost unthinkable that a revolution or civil war existed only a few hundred miles away.

At the inception of the movement the government declared a fifteen day holiday for all banks. Upon expiration of this fifteen days, Oct. 21, the banks were allowed to reopen and function normally except to issue bills of foreign exchange, a privilege reserved for the Banco do Brazil.

CRUISER TO BAHIA

Pernambuco, Brazil.—(AP)—The United States cruiser Pensacola, steamed southward toward Bahia today after a brief call outside the breakerwater here.

The cruiser arrived yesterday off the harbor and took aboard the consul and a representative of the rebel governor who offered the vessel free entry into or departure from the port. At Bahia which still is in the hands of the federal government, the Pensacola intended to take on water and fuel.

WASHINGTON SILENT

Washington.—(AP)—Silent as to press dispatches telling of the fall of the administration of President Washington Luis of Brazil, state department officials today awaited word from the American embassy in Rio de Janeiro on the status there.

It was obvious that the resignation of the Luis administration brought more than mild surprise to officials here. They declined to state whether the fall of the government had been predicted in messages from the embassy.

The attitude of department subordinates was that any comment on the situation should come from Secretary Stimson, who during the past few days has been personally handling the Brazilian situation insofar as the United States was affected. The secretary, in fact, has virtually cast aside all other pressing business of the department for that purpose.

The Brazilian embassy also was awaiting advice from Rio. The reaction of Ambassador do Amaral, who is reported in the dispatches as "low spirited."

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Ross and children, Two Rivers, were weekend visitors at the Henry Galloway home at Hortonville.

articles, indicating a profound knowledge gained from continuous reading and careful observation. His editorials, especially those on the World court and the Eighteenth amendment, won him much commendation.

Mr. Kline was recognized as a leader in the advocacy of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway project and he helped initiate the fight against diversion of water from Lake Michigan by the city of Chicago.

BORN IN INDIANA

Mr. Kline was born at Bristol, Ind., April 16, 1875, the only son of John J. Kline, Jr., of Belvidere, N. J. His mother was Harriet Maffit Kline, daughter of the Rev. John Maffit, a Methodist clergyman whose parents came to this country from County Armagh, Ireland. The Maffit homestead at Bristol, which remains in the family, is more than 100 years old.

The Kline family from which he descended came to this country from Germany about 250 years ago and settled in New Jersey where for a century and a half they were engaged mostly in the tanning business. Mr. Kline's father was educated for the law and was a literary graduate of Princeton university, but died at the age of 27.

Mr. Kline was educated at the high school of Bristol and at Indiana university, lacking a year of graduation. He left college to take a position with the Indianapolis Sentinel. He had previously intended to practice law and had read law with a southern Indiana firm several years and during vacations.

STARTED AS REPORTER

His initial newspaper training was as a reporter on the Indianapolis Sentinel, then as telegraph editor and subsequently as assistant city editor. He also held a position on the Cincinnati Post for something less than two years as a reporter.

In 1903 Mr. Kline formed a connection with the Saginaw, Mich., Daily News, becoming assistant to John T. Winslow, editor of that publication. He was with the News for ten years in that capacity and when it was purchased by the Booth interests of Michigan he became its editor and a stockholder and director.

Three years later, in conjunction with Andrew E. Turnbull, he went to Green Bay and purchased the Gazette, an established newspaper published by N. C. Fickard, and the Free Press, which had been started the previous year. The two newspapers were consolidated as "The Press-Gazette." Mr. Kline and Mr. Turnbull owned the controlling interest of The Press-Gazette.

In 1920 Messrs. Kline and Turnbull and the associated interests purchased The Post and The Crescent in Appleton and consolidated them as The Post-Crescent.

Mr. Kline was married May 26, 1906 to Ara A. Richardson, daughter of Mrs. Della and the late Ezra Richardson, lumberman, of Saginaw, Mich. They were divorced in 1920. Two children of this union survive. Harriet R. and John R. who live at Saginaw, Mich. On Nov. 20, 1923 Mr. Kline was married to Anne D. Kellogg, daughter of the late Rufus B. Kellogg, a banker, of Green Bay, and she survives him.

HOBBY WAS BOOKS

Mr. Kline was a member of the Sigma Chi and the Order of the Elks and Accepted Order of Masons. He was a member of the Green Bay Rotary club and served as its president one year. Mr. Kline for two years was president of the Wisconsin Associated Press and took an active part in the development of that news service in Wisconsin. His hobby was books, and he had collected a well chosen library of 18th and early 19th century literatures, both English and American. He was student of taxation, ecology and government and a thorough independent in politics and had traveled widely in this country and Europe. Through his connection with the Saginaw News, the Green Bay Press-Gazette and the Appleton Post-Crescent he devoted much of his time to editorial writing and was the chief contributor to this department of those newspapers.

Football fans who watch the Lawrence-Carroll game here Saturday afternoon from the north side of the field will be protected from the cold winds.

A wind breaker will be put up along the back of the north bleachers to keep out the cold breezes that drift in from over the river. The wind breaker will materially add to comfort of fans who sit there.

The wind breaker will consist of canvass donated for the game by Appleton mills at the request of Mike Steinhauer, who made a personal canvass to secure them.

CLASS STARTS STUDY OF SCHOOL LIBRARY

Sophomore English classes began their study of the library last Tuesday in the high school library. This course includes the study of classification of books, parts of a book, use of the card catalogue and the readers guide and the study of important reference books.

Miss Adela Klumb has instituted a new method of giving book reports among her senior classes. The classes are divided into groups of six and a chairman has been appointed to take charge of the discussions and keep a record of the work.

According to Miss Klumb, the purpose of this plan is to make book reviewing a less artificial procedure than is customary. By this method more information is available to the members.

City Officials Stumped As Dump Fire Continues

The mayor is out of town, the chief of the fire department is busy with the fire inspectors and the fire in the Superior-st dump continues to smolder and smolder and smell and smell. Residents in the path of the foul smelling smoke hold handkerchiefs to their noses and clamor for relief; huddles of citizens stand on street corners offering remedies that get no farther than conversation. The odor from the burning dump has become such a scourge that people have forgotten the plague of cockroaches that preceded it and as a matter of fact, was the underlying cause for setting fire to the refuse-filled ravine. The mayor has turned over the dump problem to the chief and the chief frankly admits he's "stumped." The only sure method he can suggest is washing down the entire roadway with heavy streams of water, a difficult and almost endless task. Banking with sand is futile, dynamiting is dangerous and even a good snowstorm, says the chief, will not smother the smoke, exuding from the ground around the barn.

'HARD TO STOP' O'NEIL WINS JOB AS LEGION HEAD

He Earned Citation and Praise for Gallant Deeds During War

Topeka, Kans.—(P)—A square-jawed, stocky Kansas lawyer who was cited for gallantry in action in the St. Mihiel offensive is the American Legion's new national commander.

Here in Kansas, ever since his college days, they've called Ralph T. "Duke" O'Neil "a hard man to stop."

He was "hard to stop" in the St. Mihiel drive, where he defied machine gun and shell fire to carry forward telephone wire necessary to establish communications.

That brought a citation and praise for "tireless effort and utter disregard for machine gun and shell fire."

A citation for the distinguished service cross once was refused by the new Legion head, his friends say, because similar honors were not offered men under his command.

O'Neil resigned as prosecuting attorney of Osage county, Kas., soon after the United States entered the war. At Fort Sheridan, Ill., he was commissioned a first lieutenant.

Assigned to the 11th infantry of the Fifth division, he won a captain-

CHALLENGE RIGHT TO STOP LIQUOR SALES

Madison—(P)—The right of cities to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors since the repeal of the Wisconsin prohibition enforcement act has been challenged in the state supreme court.

Counsel for William Hack, Mineral Point, who was fined $100 and sentenced to six months in the Iowa county jail for violating a city prohibition ordinance, have attacked the validity of the ordinance.

Hack's attorneys contended that there is express provision in the statutes prohibiting cities from passing prohibition ordinances and that the Mineral Point ordinance is contrary to state policy.

"It is not a question of what the nation has said," they argued. "It is a question of what power the legislature has delegated to the municipality and a question of whether the municipal ordinance is not in fact, directly contrary to the state policy in a field of exclusive state control."

cy in France and later was made regimental adjutant.

Born in Osage, Kas., 42 years ago, O'Neil attended Baker university at Baldwin, where he participated in four sports—football, basketball, baseball and track.

After a year as a high school athletic coach, he attended Harvard law school.

Prior to his enlistment he served two terms as Osage county attorney. After the war he moved to Topeka where he was city attorney for five years.

Twice before his Kansas "buddies" unanimously had endorsed him for the national commandship, but in 1928 he was defeated by Paul V. McNutt and last year withdrew in favor of C. L. Bodenhamer.

The third time he proved a charm this year, when the Legionnaires at Boston elected him by an overwhelming majority on the first vote.

O'Neil is married and the father of two sons, aged ten and eight.

PICK SCARF WITH CARE, YOUNG LADY

Reverse English Is the Thing So Far as Matching Costume Is Concerned

BY AILEEN LAMONT
(Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press)
New York —(CPA)—If you have a tweed suit, in, for instance, a red mixture with a bit of yellow, what scarf do you choose? Why, you choose a scarf in yellow mixture with a bit of red. And often your blouse matches in color the scarf.

This is last year's ensemble in reverse English. Many an otherwise darkish wool frock depends for its individuality on four, sometimes only two buttons. These are single brilliants, not too large, placed upon the front of the bodice, and unless they are so brilliant as to shine like anything, you'd better not have them at all.

If you can wear it, nothing is more striking than the season's combination of black touched with coral. And if you wear with the black ensemble a coral necklace, a coral bracelet or ring, and a coral clasp on the black hand-bag, the effect is darned near perfect.

Smith and the mortgage is held by the Seymour State bank, assignee of Mrs. Ida Ploeger.

The report that certain large brewing interests are making substantial expenditures for new equipment in anticipation of an early change in the Volstead Act to permit the manufacture of beer is raising hopes in many quarters quite beyond any justification. The likelihood that the Wickersham law enforcement commission will recommend a change in the prohibition law to permit the manufacture of beer is a far distance from the realization of any such change. The country is too big, too diverse in opinion, the dry element too numerous and resourceful to permit of any such change in the immediate future.

Many seem to be of the opinion that congress will authorize the manufacture of 2.75 per cent beer upon the theory that it is not intoxicating. To do so, we believe, would be a great mistake, for if it is not intoxicating it will not satisfy the desires of the thirsty and if it is intoxicating it is a mere subterfuge. Those who are opposed to the prohibition amendment will never be satisfied with 2.75 beer. They want 4 per cent beer and if they are in the majority in the country there is no good reason why they should not have it.

The opposition to prohibition appears to be growing in many quarters. Two more dry members of the United States senate have deserted the banner of the Anti-Saloon League, Senator Metcalf of Rhode Island and Senator Glenn of Illinois, but to jump to the conclusion that immediate relief is to result is against the better judgment of close students of the situation.

The best way to handle prohibition is not by subterfuge or makeshift but by the complete repeal of that provision in the federal constitution that never belonged there, so that the states may regulate and control the use of intoxicants as seems best to their people. 2.75 beer, if the alcoholic content stopped short of intoxicating qualities, would only furnish the breweries with a chance of making a "mistake" in every other brew to the extent of one per cent more alcohol.

The prohibition enforcement officials have practically given up any attempt to stop home brewing or the home manufacture of wine. If we recognize it as impossible to prevent people from making their own what good reason should deter us from permitting breweries to make a better and more wholesome beer, as they certainly can, and deliver it to the same homes?

AMERICAN COURTESY

Miss Nora Burglon, a magazine writer, donned a Swedish peasant costume and set forth to discover how an immigrant is treated in the United States. Some of her discoveries have not been very pleasant. She has found plenty of that gouging which American travelers so deplore in foreign lands. One taxi driver in the metropolis tried to make her pay $1.50 when the meter called for only 55 cents. Some hotels and restaurants tried to charge her extra, apparently thinking she did not know the correct charges—as she would not if she were really a bewildered immigrant but recently arrived on our hospitable shores.

She has found also that native Americans stare rudely at her because of her costume and make audible remarks about her. On the other hand, a sympathetic bystander in one city escorted her to the correct street car stop and waited to see her safely on the correct car. Apparently different nations have good and bad traits in common. The Americans who complain of staring and coldness and gouging abroad are not the only travelers. There are others who speak glowingly of courteous treatment, friendly service, generous assistance, given them by citizens of strange lands.

SAFETY MEETINGS

A generation ago the daily get-together of farmers and townspeople around the stove in the country grocery store was one of the most typically American meetings that could be imagined. Modern America, which has slowly drawn away from that informal gathering, has devised a new meeting which is quite as typical, although not quite as picturesque—the "safety meeting" of the factory hands. Not long ago this sort of meeting was generally looked on as the work of faddists; a useless wasting of time of men who might better be working. In recent years, however, the importance of the safety meeting has become generally recognized; and the fact that 7,000 safety workers from all parts of the country have just met in Pittsburgh testifies to the strides that the safety campaign has made.

It is hardly exaggerating to say that this movement for safety in industry is one of the most important movements of the day. It represents one of the few organized efforts that mankind is making to understand the nature of this mechanical age of ours. We have called innumerable machines into being, and we have to live with them for better or for worse, but we have devoted remarkably little time to the job of finding out just how we can get along with them without getting hurt. In the old days there was little need for a safety movement. The factory hand worked in a small shop and generally used his own tools; if he were not more than ordinarily clumsy—in which case he would not have his job at all—he hardly had a chance of hurting himself. Today, though, it is different. The worker is surrounded by a multitude of whirling things that can grind the life out of him if he is not careful. A moment's inattention can cripple him for life; a bit of carelessness can kill him. The effort to keep from being hurt has to be organized—and it is to the credit of American industry that it has been organized.

Indeed, the same sort of thing, to a lesser extent, is true outside of the factory as well as in. Mechanized traffic kills 30,000 men, women and children a year. We have to be 'watchful,' even on our more casual errands. Carelessness has become fearfully expensive. All of this has demonstrated pretty clearly that the machine is not an unmixed blessing. It has been a tremendous boon, in some respects, but it has also raised many new problems. The safety movement is a sincere intelligent attempt to meet some of the worst of the problems that the machine has raised. That is why it deserves country-wide support.

AND STILL THEY COME

Three men on Wednesday last entered the State Bank of Barronett, Wisconsin, forced the cashier into the vault, locked the door and departed with about $500.00, overlooking in their hurry cash and securities to a greater amount.

This is the twenty-second bank robbery in the state of Wisconsin this year but it is observable that since the bandits learned, as they did through the last campaign, that Wisconsin does not provide any modern system to apprehend them, the depredations are getting to be almost a daily affair.

The next thing likely to happen, insurance companies that protect banks from such banditry will raise their premiums, the banks faced with the new and serious expense will have to make it up off their customers, and the people as usual will pay the bills. But why shouldn't this be so? If the people want inefficient government who should pay the bills but the people?

Anyway it is much more desirable, according to the Blaine theory of government, to have bandit cars catapulting along the highway than to have officers of the law, armed and in uniform stationed at proper places to put a quietus on this sort of stuff for it is better to be inflicted with a horde of bandits, to have outlawry a daily occurrence, than to risk losing the services of Senator Blaine. When Senator Blaine has no chance to talk about someone devising sinister schemes to ride over the people rough shod like cossacks what has he left?

The five largest colleges in the United States in point of enrollment are: Columbia University, New York City; University of California, Berkeley; University of the City of Detroit, at Detroit, and Boston University, Boston.

THINGS were back to normal Thursday... President Hoover has told the manufacturers of guns, bullets and other such playthings that they aren't allowed to sell to the Brazilian rebels... he should issue a similar edict about the gangsters... which reminds us that guards threaten a pay roll holdup... s'matter—the bandits losing their technique and finesse?... better organize a bandit college... speaking of colleges, we feel some predictions coming on about college football games... It's because the contributors haven't loosened up, and we gotta fill the space somehow... has the "economic readjustment" thrown a crimp in the wisecrackers?...

"TRIES TO REPLACE

With what?

From the well known Chitrio: "In a cross country race, the cadets lost to Alfred University, scoring 27 points to their opponents 27." Maybe it's one of those moral victories.

We are very, very hurt. Down in Chicago they were telling members of the Inland Press association what a swell thing the newspapers of today are. But not one word, not one word, mind you, did they say about what an indispensable unit the modern column is. Tsk, ts, ts, ts. It just goes to show you that you're not appreciated until you're dead.

And probably a lot of people would just love to appreciate us.

Hooray for the State Police!

The present aim of the Wisconsin Bank Bandits Association is a bank a day, with extra bonuses for slugging cashiers.

Which Is a Nutty Point of View

It seems funny that every time a candidate breaks away from his party that he's "bolting."

FOOTBALL PREDICTIONS: Wisconsin will beat Purdue, Lawrence will beat Carroll, Army will beat Yale, Notre Dame will beat Pittsburgh, N. Y. U. will beat Fordham, Southern California will beat Stanford, Navy will beat Princeton, Michigan will beat Illinois, Sheboygan will beat Appleton High School. Coming on Friday, you have ample time to forget our predictions by the time the games are played.

Today's Anniversary

GERMANTOWN
On Oct. 24, 1888, a party of Germans, the first German settlers in the United States, laid out Germantown, a suburb of Philadelphia, Pa. Four of this party had the distinction five years later of making the first formal protest ever made in America against slave-holding.

Germantown today is a picturesque site, having a quaint architecture, beautiful gardens and large public libraries. One section of the town is occupied by manufacturing establishments and another is conspicuous for its fine villas.

The first paper mill in America was erected in Germantown in 1690, and here, also, in 1743 the first American edition of the Bible in any language was printed.

Germantown is chiefly noted in history, however, for the battle which was fought there between the Americans under Washington and the British and Hessians under Howe. This was the battle in which the Americans attacked their own men by mistake in the fog, but which they finally won. The Americans lost 675 and the British 575 men.

THE COMMON HAZARD OF LEAD POISONING

Lead poisoning is far more frequent than most of us imagine. There is a chance of exposure to lead poisoning in 165 different types of industry, and the chances for exposure in private or domestic life are very numerous.

The characteristic manifestations are lead colic, wrist drop, high blood pressure, a peculiar stippling of the blood—the red corpuscles appear granular when stained in the usual way for microscopic study. In some cases severe headaches, sometimes associated with delusions or aberration of mind.

Lead colic occurs in most cases of lead poisoning, and the form of intermittent, spasmodic pain, which may be relieved somewhat by pressure on the abdomen. This colic is always preceded by obstinate constipation for several days. It has been found that the best remedy for lead colic, as for lead poisoning, is calcium chloride, about two ounces of a sterile 5 per cent solution being injected slowly into a vein.

The wrist drop, familiar to painters is merely a weakness developing in the muscles which extend the wrist. Usually the patient notices first a weakness of the extensor muscles of the hand and fingers. It is important to heed this danger signal, for the wrist drop can be cured in six weeks, but otherwise it takes six months.

Probably many cases of hypertension (excessive blood pressure and associated conditions) in young persons are unrecognized chronic lead poisoning—for instance, lead dissolved in beer or wine that has been contaminated by pipes or tanks.

Many infants suffer with lead poisoning, sometimes fatally, from eating or sucking on the paint on cribs, chairs, playthings.

Physicians of large experience in dealing with lead poisoning assert that lead absorbed through the nose and lungs is ten times more poisonous than lead absorbed through the stomach. They find that the lead does harm while it is being absorbed and carried in the circulation; but ultimately it is deposited in the bones, where it does no harm. However, it may be again extracted from the bones in various circumstances and again enter the circulation and do harm. Therefore it is the best practice to "de-lead" the patient. This means the patient receives suitable medicine and suitable diet to extract the lead from the bones and eliminate it from the body.

Workers much exposed to lead have always believed that a generous indulgence in milk protected them. It does. It aids materially in fixing the lead in the bones where it is comparatively harmless. Milk contains much calcium.

A low calcium diet is given when it is desirable to "de-lead" the patient. The main features of such a diet are no milk, no eggs, no cheese, no green vegetables. Instead the patient takes soups, fruits, meats, rice, potatoes, sugar, butter, tea, coffee, and very little white or corn bread.

At the same time the patient receives ammonium chloride (sal ammoniac) six or eight doses daily for three or four weeks; the doses are capsules containing one gram (15 grains) of ammonium chloride. This helps to pull the lead (and calcium) out of the bones and eliminate it through the kidneys mainly.

Following such a low-calcium diet and ammonium chloride "de-leading," the patient should return to a high calcium diet.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

How to Be Happy The Married Young married couples—as we all should be—who seek advice from Dr. Brady will please bear these points in mind and save a good deal of hurt language.

1. No information or advice unless I can address my letter to Mrs. Brady's first name assurance that your request is genuine.

2. Always enclose stamped envelope bearing the Mrs's address.

3. I offer no information or advice about moral, religious or legal questions. My province is strictly that of health—anatomy, physiology, psychology, pathology or what are you crying about?

4. Altho it may not seem so to a lot of people who have made a bad start, it is quite possible to be happy the married. Let's handle the situation on the floor of the house.

5. My point of view may be unique, but anyhow I have the notion that at least as much sorrow in life is due to ignorance of the physiological side as grows out of moral, religious or legal factors.

6. When I say life of course I mean married life. After all, anything else is just existence.

Dilated Blood Vessels

I have red lines on the nose and cheeks, like broken veins. Can you tell me what will remove them (L. B.)

Answer.—Electro-surgery will obliterate them without leaving scar. Any good skin specialist and most family physicians can give this treatment.

The Health Department Goes Wrong
I am looking for a doctor who can extirpate tonsils with diathermy. I asked the health department in our town and was informed that "diathermy has been tried in hundreds of cases and found unsatisfactory." (M. E. G.)

Answer.—They might say the same thing of surgical tonsillectomy. But I regret I know of no throat specialist in your city who is equipped and competent to extirpate tonsils with diathermy. If the specialist or doctor has received proper training he can do quite as satisfactory a job with diathermy as can be done by any other method. The trouble is that many of the old timers have attempted to do this work without proper equipment and training for it—and naturally they and their luckless patients find it unsatisfactory.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

S AID Clowry, "It might be all right to stay up here until it's night, so we can look down on the town and see the flashing lights. But I am starved. I'd rather eat. I think we'd best pass up this street. I'm sure we'll never miss it, since we've seen so many sights."

"All right, young fellow, I'll agree," replied the Travel Man. "We'll see what sort of cafe we can find. I'm rather hungry, too. You'll like the journey back to town 'cause all the way we'll travel down. This spot is on a real high hill. Lead on! I'll follow you."

So, down the hill the Tynmites went. Cried Clowry, "It is my intent to lead you to a real good meal. I'll find it 'ere I'm done. We'll order all that we can eat from vegetables to juicy meat. And then we'll take our time and it will be a lot of fun."

And soon he did just what he said. They found a spot and all were fed until they simply had to stop. The Travel Man said, "That is how I like to see you feast. You've eaten all you could, at least. I'm frankly very much surprised that you are not real fat."

They sauntered then, on down the street. "Oh, look whom we are going to meet," cried Carry as two girls came near. "There's sweet as they can be." The Travel Man replied, "You bet! An introduction you shall get." And soon one girl said, "Little boys like you we're glad to see."

The girls, at first, were rather shy, and shortly Clowry shouted, "I will buy us all some candy. There's a store across the street." So, to the store they promptly went and some of Clowry's coins were spent. One of the girls said, "Mr. oh, we quite enjoy this treat."

The Tynmites make some more purchases in the next story.

Now that Lindy has purchased a farm in New Jersey does he expect to fly from chore to chore?

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—Back in those hectic spring days of 1929, when congress in special session endeavored to devise a scheme to help the farmer, a Kentucky democrat named Dave Kincheloe was in the limelight a great deal.

Baldheaded and florid-faced, he spoke more than 20 times in behalf of the administration's plan—something rare for him, who rarely talks on the floor of the house.

It soon became evident that Kincheloe and the White House were not far apart on the farm problem. As one of the five members of the house selected to draft the administration bill he was consulted frequently by the President.

REWARDED

With much enthusiasm his colleagues heard him say, not once, but many times:

"I want to give the President full power to go out and get the biggest gyan available to be chairman of this farm board."

"We do not want to hamstring the President. . . I want to give him all the power that can be given him."

"I think you will fare well if you follow the admonition of the President of the United States. . ."

"I am going to do what I can to put this bill on the statute books of the United States, because the President wants it. . ."

The bill was passed. When President Hoover signed it, he did so with four pens. One went to Senator McNary, chairman of the agricultural committee of the senate. Another went to Representative Haugen, chairman of the house agricultural committee. The other two went to Representatives Purnell of Indiana and Williams of Illinois—Republicans who had added in the fight.

In October of last year Representative Williams was named by the President to be a justice on the United States court of claims.

And just the other day Dave Kincheloe received word that he had been given a presidential appointment as justice of the customs court—a lifetime job.

EAST JUMP TO BENCH

Kincheloe, after serving 16 years in the house and despite the fact that he was assured election for another term, accepted and tendered his resignation as a member of congress to the governor of Kentucky.

The jump from a seat in congress to the bench will not be a difficult one for Kincheloe. Now 53 years old, he has been identified closely with the profession of law since he was 22.

Two years after he had read law at the little town of Calhoun, Ky., and had been admitted to the bar, he was chosen prosecuting attorney for his county. He had the distinction of being the youngest county attorney in Kentucky at the time.

All the time he has been in congress he has maintained an active interest in his law firm back home in Madisonville.

BARBS

The stock market is in the doldrums this year, someone says, because the numerals in 1930 add up to 13. The only significance many will see in this explanation is the connection between their resources and the zero.

Druggists at a recent convention favored excluding bathing suits and auto tires from their sales lists. What with a profitable sandwich and book trade, maybe they regard other commodities as drugs on the market.

"Best of all," said Kurg Alfonso of Spain recently, "I like to drive my little two-seater Ford." That is what foreign correspondents meant, perhaps, when they referred to the rumblings of a Spanish revolution.

Russia is reported to be flooding America with toothbrushes. Perhaps they might have used them themselves had they held on to their wheat.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—Some apartment dwellers pick a fashionable address. Park avenue, Sutton place, Fifth avenue, or their immediate purlieus.

Others seek convenience, settling in one of the numerous new developments that make it possible for them to walk to work.

Some choose the quiet dignity of a spot like Gramercy park and acquire a key that admits them to that exclusive plot of greenery.

Others—artists and writers, mainly—dig into the colony of their kind that still occupies the old quarter of Greenwich Village and across lower Fifth avenue.

Wood-burning fireplaces are a lure for some. Others prefer a view from their windows.

Me, I went in for the view this fall.

TOWNSCAPE

From the eminence of 11 stories a sweeping panorama is spread before the windows of this town-scanner's nest.

It is a real sound picture of midtown that hasn't paled yet. A great help, too, when the evening gusts romp in. When conversation lags, somebody finds a new enchanting angle for their gazing. Pardon me if I sing it.

First avenue's workaday traffic pounds along with the tempo of the restless city. Yachts of commuting Wall street bond buyers float lightly on a bit of the East river.

At night the picture is like a purple curtain hung with gleaming Christmas tree ornaments. Behind the silver-sheen of the Chrysler spire, the upper girders of the Empire State building, which will take over the former's boast of being the world's tallest, are hung with a criss-cross of lights.

The illuminated top of the Chamin tower is like a red-hot grate. The fanciful gold crest of the New York Central building already has been likened by somebody else to the palace of Nemo, the funny-paper character.

Closer in the background is a dark mass that is taking definite form as the new Waldorf-Astoria. Westward Broadway's glow rims the horizon like the reflection of a great fire and a sign, too far away to be distinguishable, flashes intermittently.

In the foreground are rooftops of tenements baw and lighted penthouse porches or terraced gardens above. Out of it all comes a continuous symphony of tug-boat toots, an old's soft roar and the low rumble of never-stilled traffic.

NEIGHBOR

Strange acquaintances are made in this big town.

Our hope before was next door to the saloons of a socially renowned dressmaker. After awhile her doorman, who wore his ship's captain's uniform, came to recognize us. Every morning and evening he would tip his cap, lining our humble ego to soaring heights.

As we followed the movers out of the building last day, he walked over to help us into a taxi. It was the first time he had ever spoken to us.

"I hope you like your new place," he said.

Our new doorman is very nice, but we'll miss the voluntary courtesy of that one.

FEW WITHDRAWALS AS BANKS LOWER INTEREST RATES

Further Reduction Expected in Country During Next Few Months

Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York—A canvass of the savings banks in greater New York that reduced their interest rate on deposits from 4 1/2 to 4 per cent on Oct. 1, indicates that the effect of this in the way of withdrawals has been slight. Such moderate losses as some of the institutions have experienced in the past three weeks have been due chiefly to the demand for funds to purchase securities.

These withdrawals have been on a minimal scale compared with those of a year ago, when not only cash buying of stocks but protection of margins caused a drop of $120,000,000 between Sept. 1 and Dec. 1 in the deposits of the savings banks in the metropolitan district.

Talks today with officers of these institutions brought out the fact that, during this year, many individuals have been putting their money in the savings banks, regardless of the rate of interest paid on it, as one of the normal forms of protection that prevails at a time when there is much unemployment and unsettlement in the markets for securities and real estate.

THRIFTY TIGHTEN THRIFT
In such periods, it was maintained, the naturally thrifty become even more thrifty and economical in their personal expenditures and like to have "money in the bank." Testimony to the same effect comes also from other sections of the country where the mutual savings banks play an important part in the life of a community.

As a result of this trend toward increasing savings bank monies, recent figures have shown that in every month since last November, with the single exception of May, the greater New York savings banks have had a net gain in deposits. In the ten months to Sept. 30, deposits exceeded withdrawals by $145,000,000. The same general conditions obtained throughout New York state where gains were recorded in each of the ten months, except in April and in May when there was a slight loss. The proportion of increase, however, was larger in the New York city district than throughout the state.

It is expected that after Jan. 1 there will be further reductions in the rate of interest paid by savings banks in this territory, in line with the action taken by a group of banks a few weeks ago. This is likely to influence reductions outside of New York, where in various localities savings banks have been paying 4 1/2 per cent, and some as high as 5 per cent.

SEE RATE DROP
It is not improbable that institutions, such as national or state banks and trust companies, that have been permitting depositors on time to receive 4 per cent interest, which in many cases is compounded, will reduce this rate during the winter to a level more in conformity with that being paid by the New York clearing house banks on current accounts.

So far the withdrawals from the New York savings banks to purchase securities have not been very large. The public is extremely cautious and, while there is believed to have been absorption of securities on a considerable scale by large capitalists, the small investor takes the attitude that he would prefer to pay higher prices when the situation has been stabilized rather than to buy at the present heavily depreciated prices with conditions still much unsettled.

Therefore, the savings bank may have larger withdrawals later when confidence has been reestablished and the public again looks for better yields than are available on savings deposits and begins to think in terms of capital appreciation on its investments.

WANTS PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY DROPPED

A petition has been filed with Charles H. Forward, referee in bankruptcy at Oshkosh, for discharge of the bankruptcy proceedings against Nick Moudakis, former Appleton restaurant owner. Moudakis formerly operated a restaurant on E. College-ave which closed before he filed a petition in bankruptcy. Moudakis was arrested on several charges including larceny and removal of mortgaged property without consent of the owner, but these were dropped when he paid for the goods. A hearing has been scheduled on his petition for dismissal of the bankruptcy proceedings at Milwaukee on Nov. 22.

Italians Off To Assisi To See Boris, Giovanna Wed

Assisi, Italy — (P)—Kings and commoners, statesmen and hawkers, soldiers and priests converged on this little city today in anticipation of the marriage tomorrow of Princess Giovanna, third daughter of the Italian king, to Czar Boris III of Bulgaria.

Prior to the ceremony a royal train bearing the bride and groom, King Victor Emanuel, Queen Elena, and others attending them will arrive from Turin and San Rossore. After the ceremony it will carry the royal figures back to old haunts while Boris and Giovanna leave for a short Adriatic honeymoon prior to a second ceremony at Sofia.

The Roman Catholic ceremony here is by special dispensation of the pope, who is permitting Giovanna to marry Boris, of the Greek Orthodox faith, with the proviso that their children be brought up as Roman Catholics and that there be no succeeding Greek Orthodox marriage ceremony which might be construed as having been recognized by the Vatican. Because of these stipulations it is regarded as probable that the Sofia ceremony will be little more than a ceremonious registration of the marriage.

A last minute rearrangement will permit the ceremony to be held in the so-called upper church of St. Francis, instead of the lower basilica, on which it is superimposed. Princess Giovanna had hoped to be married in the lower church, in which is the sarcophagus containing the remains of St. Francis of Assisi. It is the first Gothic church in Italy, and with the upper church, contains art treasures surpassing almost any other ecclesiastical art collections in provincial Italy. The change was made because of the larger upper auditorium.

An expert squad of traffic policemen from Rome has been imported to handle tomorrow's traffic—which will consist principally of the royal automobiles, since all others are to be kept off the streets from the time the royal party arrives until it leaves. Altogether there are about 5,000 troops and police here for the occasion, including 2,500 infantrymen, 600 cadet carabinieri, and 600 police cadets from the Caserta school. The remainder are Fascist militia, artillerymen, and cuirassiers of the mounted escort and regular police.

Besides King Victor Emanuel and Queen Elena, other royal figures present will include the former queen of Greece, and no less than 35 princes and princesses of the blood. All those of the house of Savoy with the consorts will be present except the Prince Undine, who is representing the king at the Abyssinian coronation, Prince Thomas, duke of Genoa, who is ill, and the duke of Spoleto, who is convalescent after a motorboat accident at Venice recently.

Boris' father, the former Czar Ferdinand, who is an exile from his country, will not be present, but his brother, Prince Cyril, and his sister, Princess Eudoxia, and an elaborate suite will be in attendance. Princess Giovanna is a tall, pretty black-haired, brown-eyed girl, who will be 23 years old Nov. 13. She has known Boris for several years, their romance having been thwarted for a long time because of the religious complications involved. She is said to have visited the tomb of St. Francis not less than eight times recently to pray that these objections be overcome, and that when finally they were overcome to have been insistent that the ceremony take place in the church so sacred to him.

Boris is 36 years old and has sat on the throne of his country since abdication of his father, Oct. 3, 1919. He also is tall and is known as one of the handsomest monarchs of Europe. He is very popular in his own kingdom, where he has a reputation for democracy and doing such things as repairing his own automobile and sitting with the locomotive engineer on occasional train trips.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU
"SCORPIO"

If October 25th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a. m. to 8:30 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m. and 8 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1 p. m. and 5 p. m. to 6 p. m.

There will be a "mixed grill" of events on this date, mostly unimportant ones. Few pre-arranged plans will be carried out. Your merit and character will be attacked by jealous associates. Run no health risks, as the astrological influences are of a lowering nature.

The child born on this October 25th will have a rather tactless and unrestrained nature, and will give offence without meaning to do so. It will love freedom, adventure, amusements, sports and sociability. It will learn more from experience, travel, and observation than from books.

You are not temperamentally fitted to live a solo life. You do not necessarily want to learn on some one else, but you are unhappy if you cannot share your life closely with another sympathetic being. You are a brave, unselfish, enthusiastic companion — alone you are cowardly and depressed. You desire life, gaiety and color, but you seek these externally. Your spirits need constant stimulation. You seek change and variety — not so much in people, as in other things, for you stick to your pals.

You are quick witted and entertaining, although you are not a profound and deep thinker. Your keen powers of observation are of great value to you, and your chief source of information. You are not original, but you are a clever mimic and imitator. You have fastidious tastes and are never careless about your personal appearance. You are also proud and careful in the choice of your associates. Your likes and dislikes are very pronounced and you are rather inclined to baby them. You allow your hates to play too big a part in your life, and many of them should be conquered. You are a malicious and revengeful enemy, and you seldom forgive, and never forget. You will often sacrifice a bright future for the sake of the present, for you do not suffer discomforts with any degree of amiability. If you be a woman, you allow yourself to become hysterical at times when you should keep your head, and you should endeavor to overcome all neurasthenic tendencies.

SUCCESSFUL PEOPLE BORN:
October 25th
1.—Richard Howell—governor of New Jersey.

CHIEF WARNS AGAINST EARLY CELEBRATIONS

Police Chief George T. Primm Friday morning warned Appleton youngsters against premature Halloween celebrations. The chief said that boys should remember Halloween does not occur until next Thursday and he warned that even then the law does not permit degradation of property. Innocent fun, the chief said, is tolerated, but such pranks as carrying off personal property, or damaging property of any nature will not be permitted. Boys caught doing such things will be taken into court, the chief said.

My Neighbor Says--

Brussels sprouts, for example, can be kept for a long time if the plants are taken up, root and all, and set in a box of earth in the cellar.

If the blade has become separated from the handle of a knife fill in the cavity with a paste made of three parts resin and one of powdered pumice stone. Heat the prong of the knife until red hot and press into the paste.

In baking potatoes in a gas stove place them in the broiler instead of in the oven. They will cook much more quickly and the flavor will be much improved by the quick cooking. A saving in gas is also a result not to be scoffed at.

The Story of Sue
by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

WHEN Jack finally released Sue, and she sat back on the seat of his car again, she was a little breathless, a little frightened, and Jack's low words were still echoing through her heart.

"Oh Sue, darling, I've been so... dumb! But I know what I want now! I love you, Sue!" Her heart had started to sing then. Three little words had changed the world. Had lighted all the golden tapers and set all the cheery heartfires flaming high. "I... love... you! Do you think you could learn to care?"

Could learn to care! She had silently repeated the words. When she had cared for so much longer than he had! But being a woman, and being wiser now than she had been a few months before, she did not answer in words. She merely lifted her face to his again.

Suddenly Sue remembered the hospital and Sarah. They had forgotten about Sarah. Sue felt a little guilty that she should be so happy when Sarah was so ill... when all of her dreams were being broken into pieces and scattered on the ground.

Somewhere the whole evening seemed more like a play, something especially staged, than like life. Even the odor of ether that lingered in the corridors was unreal.

"Miss Slade is resting easier," the nurse told Sue when they got there. "But she seems weaker. If we can increase her strength a little it will help wonderfully."

"Is anyone with her?" Sue asked. "We aren't letting anyone in, but Dr. Burton has been here most of the time, and there's someone in the waiting room."

Sue wasn't surprised when she found Ted in the waiting room. He had known all along that he would be there.

Sue's face was tired and drawn but his chin was set resolutely. At sight of Jack and Sue he jumped up in relief.

"Waiting alone is devilish," he said. "Sit down and stay! Stay as long as you can."

Something in his words made Jack gaze at him carefully a minute. Then he started to take off his overcoat, the easiest chair in the room, looked out of the window to the wintry sky above. She could see just one star tonight, a silver one that seemed to flood the space which the window framed with a glamorous mystery. The old childhood rhyme went singing softly through her mind.

"Starlight, star bright,
First star I've seen tonight!"

But she didn't have to make a wish now. She had hers. Jack loved her. She said the words over again, more slowly, to make herself realize their truth. Her eyes looked up, straight into Jack's clear gray ones which smiled back so eagerly. Oh life was good... but Sarah was dying, perhaps.

Some place far, down the hall a bell rang impatiently and the sound of hurrying steps followed the ringing. A doctor passed the open door, and nodded to the group.

Ted stood up and went to look out of the window.

"It's tough luck," Jack told him sympathetically. "But she'll pull through. She has to!"

Ted turned and smiled, and as he did so, Sue suddenly sensed the situation. Ted was being chivalrous! It was Joan whom he wanted. But Sarah was ill and alone, and he was going to be game. As if Sarah, with her old gay pride, would ever have accepted crumbs of love from anyone's table.

Sue heard her voice speaking and was surprised at the words it said.

THE WHY OF IT
Washington—After a careful study of the rift valleys of Africa, Dr. Bailey Willis, research associate of the Carnegie Institution here, has come to the conclusion that the reason mountains and tablelands rise is because of the reaction of tiny molecules to the high pressure and intentional heat of the earth. Heat pockets cause a change in size and form of tiny crystals of rocks, causing them to push upward, he says.

RUBBER FROM OIL
Washington—Artificial rubber may yet be produced if the experiments of the U. S. Bureau of Standards prove of commercial value. This office has produced crystalline rubber from crude petroleum by the extraction of certain hydrocarbons from it, according to Dr. George Burgess, director of the bureau. "Solid rubber is an almost certainty if the work can be extended," he says.

ANOTHER AIR LINK
Cleveland—The east is to be directly hooked up with the northwest by airplane next spring when the Thompson Aeronautical Corp. opens its line between here and Milwaukee. The new line will employ large amphibians and will carry passengers and freight. Points en route will be Grand Rapids, Lansing and Muskegon, Michigan.

STUDENTS WILL GIVE LECTURE ON MARQUETTE

An illustrated lecture on Father Marquette University at the meeting of Court Ave Maria, Catholic Daughters of America, Monday night at Columbia hall. The lecture for which no admission will be charged, will begin at 8 o'clock and will be open to the public. Over one hundred colored slides accompany the lecture, describing the work and voyages of exploration and discovery of this great Jesuit missionary in Canada, Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, and Missouri.

The lecture will be preceded by a 6 o'clock dinner at the hall for members only. The committee in charge of arrangements for the affair includes Mrs. Grace Mullen, Mrs. Florence Spoerl, Mrs. Frances Bauer, Mrs. Mary Nemacheck, Miss Louise Grignon, Mrs. Estelle O'Keefe, Miss Mary De Jonge, Mrs. Laura Canaan, Mrs. Camille O'Neil, Miss Dinah Geenen, Mrs. Marion Eickman, Mrs. Paul Abendorph, Mrs. Edna Eickel, and Miss Josephine Gantter. Mrs. Anna Cummings is chairman of the committee.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS--

The man who is lucky in love remains single.

A-A-A-CHOO!

Berlin—There's no excuse now for staying in bed after the alarm clock goes off and then going back to sleep. A new German clock recently invented takes care of that. It has a novel device attached to it which, at the given moment, explodes a cartridge containing a pungent gas. This causes the sleeper to sneeze himself awake.

MRS. STANSBURY IS HONORED BY LODGE IN STATE

Mrs. Karl Stansbury, Appleton, was elected state treasurer of the Wisconsin branch of International Order of King's Daughters at the annual convention Wednesday and Thursday at Eau Claire. Mrs. P. A. Paulson, the only Appleton woman who attended the sessions, was elected secretary and treasurer of the state work fund, and also junior chairman of the state.

Mrs. Morris Leibert, New York, international president, was a guest at the convention, which was attended by about 70 women from all parts of the state. Other officers elected at this time included Mrs. Harry E. Thoma, Sheboygan, president; Mrs. Henry Schlichter, Sheboygan Falls, secretary; Mrs. George Boss, Milton, first vice president; Mrs. Henry Daek, Manitowoc, second vice president; Mrs. Fred G. Cochran, Eau Claire, third vice president; Mrs. Sarah Syatt, Sheboygan Falls, state representative Silver Cross magazine; Mrs. C. H. Zoerb, Kohler, Bible chairman.

BONES SHOW CHANGE
Washington—One of the most interesting collection of bones in the world, found near Cumberland, Md., and now in the National Museum here, show that the entire continental United States has probably undergone a climatic and physical change in the past 400,000 or 500,000 years. Since the bones were deposited, some of the animals from which they come have become extinct.

MORE AIR TRAVELERS
Washington—After a survey of the mid-west, south and far west, W. Irving Glover, Assistant Postmaster General of the United States, is of the opinion that air transportation is on a sound footing and that there is a "healthy increase in such mode of transportation." Lines on the Pacific coast are filling 60 per cent of their seats, and in the mid-west it is sometimes necessary to run two sections to care for passengers.

LOVE, POLITICS JOIN IN MARRIAGE OF LONELIEST KING

Groom, 36, Who Will Take Bride, 22, Is Versatile, Talented Monarch

BY MILTON BRONNER
London — The world's loneliest king, Boris of Bulgaria, will soon be lonely no longer, for he is to be married to the pretty Princess Giovanna, third daughter of the King and Queen of Italy. Both nations expressed their joy and pleasure over the announcement. In both it has been emphasized that this is a love match pure and simple. And indeed it has been known for some years that King Boris was smitten by the charms of the young Italian girl.

But this notwithstanding, there is some profound politics in the match, too, and once more the clever and masterly hand of Mussolini is seen at work. For the Duke the two possible enemies of his country are France and her ally, Yugoslavia, which is Italy's neighbor right across the narrow Adriatic sea. To counter France and encircle Yugoslavia has been the constant policy of Mussolini in the Balkans. To this end he played up to Hungary. With this purpose, he backed Zog and made him King of Albania, which is a jumping off place threatening the very heart of Yugoslavia.

IT'S A REAL LOVE MATCH
The love match between Boris and Giovanna puts the final seal on Mussolini's work. Bulgaria, diminished in size and crippled as to armament as a result of her being a German ally in the world war, is already grateful to Mussolini for what he did for her in the matter of reparations settlements recently. This royal match virtually makes Bulgaria a future ally of Italy.

In many ways the royal bridegroom is the ablest and most versatile of reigning European monarchs. "Also one of the wisest," his father, the Ex-Czar Ferdinand, was crafty, intriguing, ambitious and utterly cynical. He loved power and did not rest until he had succeeded in getting the powers to recognize his title as Czar instead of a mere reigning Prince or King of Bulgaria. When he abdicated after the world war was lost, by the Central Powers, his throne fell to Boris who loved the simple life, did not care for pomp and glory and display, and was as democratic as a prince can be.

A KING WITH MANY TALENTS
He is earnest, well meaning and intelligent. He understands the Bulgarian peasants better than his ministers, is at ease among them and is well liked by them. He loves to potter about with machinery and can drive a railway locomotive with the best of them. He is the best royal linguist in Europe. He speaks Bulgarian, English, French, German, Italian and Russian with equal facility. He is a keen student of birds and one of the best ornithologists in Europe. He is happiest when he can leave his palace in the capital of Sofia, go to one of his country estates, do some fishing and study the ways of butterflies.

His home in Sofia has been run for him by his sister, Princess Yvonne, who is said to have stated she would never marry until Boris had a wife to look after him. Now that his engagement has been announced, it is hinted that she may wed the Duke of Spoleto, who is a cousin of the Italian King. King Boris is 36 and his bride-to-be is 22. It is an interesting fact, too, that Boris is 36 and his bride-to-be is 22. blood, his mother having been Princess Mary Louise, a daughter of the Duke of Bourbon-Parma.

RELIGION MAY COMPLICATE MARRIAGE
The one thing that had held up the engagement for so long was the vital matter of religion. The state religion of Bulgaria is the Orthodox church. The religion of the Italian Princess is Roman Catholic. Boris himself was brought up as a Roman Catholic, but entered the Orthodox faith years ago because it is necessary for the heir to the throne to belong to the state church. When the announcement of the formal betrothal of Boris and Giovanna was made, it was presumed the way had been smoothed for a papal dispensation.

But now this situation has become very hazy. The "Observer Romano," the semi-official organ of the Vatican, has printed a note saying that such a dispensation has been granted. Before it can be given, it must be understood that all the offspring of such a marriage shall be baptized and educated in the Roman Catholic faith. There thus comes a clash between the rules of the Vatican and the stipulations of the Bulgarian constitution. Best informed opinion is that this will not prove insurmountable. There is nothing to prevent the children being reared as Roman Catholics and then for the eldest son and heir to the throne—if there be one—adopting the Orthodox faith when he reaches the age of discretion and can make free or state choice for himself.

In the meantime, the telegram sent by Pope XI in reply to one from the Italian King is being called quite cryptic. It is as follows: "We thank your majesty and her Majesty, the Queen, for the courteous communication. We pray to the Lord and we will continue to pray that all will happen according to His most benign approval and with Divine benediction."

Real Love Match

King Boris of Bulgaria, right, is 36 years old and is generally credited with being one of the most intelligent and democratic monarchs in Europe. It is said that his marriage to Princess Giovanna, left, third daughter of the King and Queen of Italy, will be a love match, although Italy and Bulgaria will benefit politically from the union.

Labels
Mother took Skipper to the shop and allowed him to select a new cap and sweater. Skipper liked himself a lot in that cap and sweater. It was a deep red sweater with blue bands and the cap could be pulled down over his face like a helmet. It had blue bands too. Skipper prayed that it would be cold enough on Monday to wear the gorgeous things. Monday morning dawned clear and frosty. Just the day for the red cap and sweater. Proudly Skipper marched into the classroom, his front well extended, his head held high. Proudly and with a flourish he skimmed the cap from his head and the sweater from his chest. Proudly, he hung them on a nail. None the less proudly did Hyman and Pat and Frederick and Eileen and Marie hang their sweaters and caps, trimmed with blue bands on similar nails. By and by it was time to go home. "Monitors stand," said Miss Marie. "Give out clothing."

Like a devastating army the monitors fell upon the wardrobe, each taking hold of as many coats and caps and mufflers and rubbers and sweaters as possible. Without fear or favor they distributed them. You see Miss Marie was new to the ways of the second graders.

"Teacher, teacher, he has my new sweater."
"I have not. It's mine."
"Teacher, teacher, it is not. It's mine."
"Tugs of war were on all over the room. Alas for red sweaters with blue bands. Everybody claimed ownership to everyone of them. Voices were raised and so were feet and fists. In desperation Miss Marie gave the order, "CLASS, SIT!"

After about five minutes of insistence the class sat under protest. "I'll let you sit there now until every bit of clothing is hung up again. Then one by one you may go to the closet and get your own things."
"Now then, Hyman, you may go." Hyman went and with grave care selected his sweater and cap. No sooner had he laid hands on them than Skipper was upon him with the roar of an angry bull. "That's mine. You're go-uh-uh."

Finally the principal had to come. He heard the story, saw the tears, the anxiety, the helplessness of the bereft children and sighed. "I suppose none of you had your names on your caps and sweaters and things?" Nobody had. It took the remainder of the week to assure everybody that he had his own garments. Some were silenced, and never convinced. Hyman and Skipper had daily fights over the ownership of the original outfits. The second grade teacher, Miss Marie, wrote forty-five polite notes to forty-five mothers asking them to PLEASE label their children's things.

It is better to do so. A tape label saves much trouble. Rubbers marked inside with owners' names rarely go astray. Mittens fastened to coat sleeves with tapes are safe. Aside from the loss of the garments the loss of peace of mind and peace in the children is serious. Put on a label and save it all. (Copyright, 1930, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

LAWRENCE OPENS ITS HOMECOMING WEEKEND TONIGHT

Frolic, Pep - meeting and Torch-light Parade on Program This Evening

Lawrence college will begin its annual Homecoming celebration tonight with a frolic at the old gym, followed by a giant pep-meeting and torch-light parade. The freshman bonfire, a traditional event of Lawrence Homecomings, has been dispensed with this year because of the increased fire hazard to campus buildings, but a surprise event, to be announced tonight, has been arranged to take the place of the bonfire. Prominent members of former classes and old football players will speak at the pep session in Memorial chapel, and members of the team will appear on the platform. After the pep-meeting the entire student body will form a torch-light procession and parade up and down College-ave.

At 10 o'clock Saturday morning the annual Homecoming parade will leave the Chapel and travel west on College-ave, to State-st and return. Each fraternity and sorority and all the clubs and dormitories will enter floats in competition for the cash prizes offered by the Chamber of Commerce. Each organization is planning to keep its plans secret until the time comes to form the procession. At least thirty floats are expected to enter the parade according to Edgar Koch, parade chairman.

Between halves of the Lawrence-Carroll football game, feature of the afternoon, the new Pep Band will appear for the first time in its uniforms. The uniforms consist of white corduroy trousers, white sweaters with a Vixen emblem similar to the emblem on the sideline coats of the football squad, and white "gob caps. In the evening the second all-college dance of the year will be held at the new Alexander symposium. An eight piece band from Madison will play.

WIFE WELCOMES COSTE ON ARRIVAL IN FRANCE
Havr, France —(AP)—Captain Dieudonne Coste, transatlantic flight hero, debarked from the liner France incognito at 8 o'clock a. m. today and his much advertised marital difficulties were immediately smothered in the kisses and embraces of Mme. Coste, who was awaiting him at the pier.

They left for Deauville in an automobile, intending to return here at 4 o'clock p. m. for his official debarkation, when he and Maurice Bellonte, his mechanic in the long flight across the Atlantic, will be received by Mayor Leon Meyer and the city council.

"They certainly do things in a big way in America," M. Coste told newspapermen. "By the time we had gone half way on our national tour B. I. and I were puzzled whether we were in France or in America. "Only for language our welcome was just as enthusiastic as it might have been or will be in Paris tomorrow. Will you please tell them in the United States how much we appreciated it. Tell them Bellonte and Coste simply feel like shouting Vive L'Amerique!"

HALF AND HALF WORLD
Washington—The time will come when the earth will continually present one side to the sun in its revolution around that body, and will rotate with its axis pointed directly to the solar body, according to Dr. W. J. Spillman, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Then it will be baking hot on one side of the earth all the time and about 50 degrees below zero on the side which the sun will never reach. It's about a billion years away, however, the doctor consoles.

Beautiful hair!
Modern hair dressers arrange the hair so beautifully that it's bound to attract attention. That's why it's so important to guard its color and lustre; keep it in perfect condition. There is no surer, simpler way to do this than with Danderine. Each time you use your brush, just moisten it with this delicately fragrant liquid. Then as you draw it through your hair, it removes the excess oil; brings out the natural color; makes the hair fairly sparkle with new life and lustre. How much easier it is to arrange the hair afterwards. How it stays in place. And try "settling" the waves with Danderine. They stay in so much longer. Danderine quickly dissolves the crust of dandruff; puts the scalp in the pink of condition; helps the hair to grow long, silky and abundant. Adv.

SUSPECT ARRESTED IN BLACKMAIL CONSPIRACY

New York —(AP)—Howard Larkin, 28, who described himself as a contractor, was under arrest on a charge of blackmail today after receiving a marked $50 bill from Mrs. Frances Preston Thompson, wife of George W. Thompson, a retired wealthy broker of Cazenovia, N. Y. Mrs. Thompson, a former actress, known on the stage as Frances Stevens, told police she had received three letters demanding $2,000 under a threat to carry information concerning her to her husband or to the newspapers.

Last night she received a telephone call telling her to be in front of a certain number on Seventh-ave with the money in an envelope. She went to the spot with a marked $50 bill, and some waste paper. Two detectives loitered nearby. When Larkin accepted her and asked if she had the package he was arrested.

Mrs. Thompson said she had "nothing to hide and had acted to rid society of such vicious blackmailers."

Larkin denied knowing anything about the blackmail scheme, saying he had arranged to get the letter for a friend.

CARROLL, LAWRENCE IN HOMECOMING

Still smarting from the 13 to 6 defeat dealt out to them by the Carroll College Pioneers last year at Waukesha, Coach Edward Kotal's Vikings are determined to make Homecoming a grand success and at the same time atone for that loss tomorrow afternoon at Whiting Field.

In its series with Carroll, the blue and white has won 14 of the meetings, lost five, and tied five which seems to indicate the superiority of the local team. However, Carroll has won three of the last six tilts, one being tied, and the Vikes winning twice.

The varsity team will have to fight its hardest tomorrow if they wish to preserve the record of never losing to a Pioneer team on the Lawrence gridiron. This is a thing for Lawrence gridmen of the past to be proud of and should add a great deal to the spirit and vigor of the present players. The mark was seriously threatened two years ago when Coach Norris Armstrong brought with him a regular "bone-crushing" eleven that piled up first down after first down, but which found an impregnable stone wall when within striking distance of a touchdown. The game ended a scoreless tie, but in reality was a moral victory for Coach Rasmussen's men, who hadn't even been given an outside chance.

Eddie Kotal who distinguished himself with the Green Bay Packers professional team and assistant under Rasmussen, is the helm of the Viking ship this year. He replaced his former head, Clarence Rasmussen, who resigned last spring to return to Country Day school, Milwaukee, as principal. In his two years at Lawrence, former mentor introduced a new style of play which is being carried on in a big way by his successor, Kotal.

Despite their two defeats, the Vikings are able to boast of a team that should every bit as good as the Carroll eleven. The blue and white suffered defeats at the hands of the University of Marquette and the University of Wisconsin, both nothing to cause an alarm in the Lawrence camp, because of the full realization that the winners were in a higher class than the college team.

Coach Norris Armstrong, a business man in off months, but a football man in the best sense of the word in the fall, has a lot to say this year which he hopes will repeat the predecessors' successful Little Four match last year ending atop the loop throne.

In its games played thus far, the Pioneers have shown a world of strength. Perhaps the most outstanding achievement has been the 19 to 6 victory over the University of Northwestern "B" team. In the three games

Homecoming Celebration

Saturday, October 25

CLASH THRILLER

series with the Big Ten "B" eleven, Armstrong's proteges have copped all.

When the Vikings trot out on the field tomorrow, two boys will be sitting on the bench in sorrow. Ken Laird, co-captain with Paul Fischl, and one of the best flank prospects in the history of the college, received a broken jaw in the Wisconsin fracas and is done for the season. Just when it seemed as though he were headed for a Midwest berth, injuries stepped in to rob Charlie Barnes, crack quarter, of further competition. Barnes, a daring open field runner and an accurate passer, had been bearing the brunt of the Vike attack until he, too, was forced to the sidelines.

"Old man hardluck" has paid a visit to the Waukesha town as well, and has left his mark. Orlebeke, signal caller for the Carrollians and three year veteran, broke his collarbone in the Northwestern fray and has hung his moleskins up for the season.

A giant celebration has been planned by those in charge of the Homecoming which will be climaxed with the grid exhibition in the afternoon. Townspeople are urged to attend the game and back the team, because, after all, it really is their team as much as that of the college. Only one more game will be played by the Vikings. Koral's men will be host to Cornell on Nov. 22.

LIGHT COMMISSION IS UP TO VOTERS, ATTORNEY DECIDES

Mayor N. G. Remmel Refuses to Break Tie Vote Cast to Council

Menasha—Whether Menasha will have a water and light commission to govern its city utilities will be decided by the voters in the general election next April. At an adjourned meeting of the city council Thursday evening, Mayor N. G. Remmel refused to break a tie vote and the question was automatically thrown to the people.

A petition urging the formation of a commission was presented to the council at its regular meeting Tuesday evening but after a tie vote the session was adjourned pending investigation of laws governing a decision on such an issue. The mayor's lack of veto power was considered at that time as being equivalent to lack of power to cast a deciding ballot.

A written opinion submitted by Melvin F. Crowley, city attorney, at the adjourned meeting Thursday stated that the Mayor had the power to cast a deciding ballot, irrespective of his lack of veto power.

WONT CAST VOTE
"If the question before the house would be lost, or the petition invalidated, I would settle the issue here and now," the mayor said. "In order to function properly however the council must not be a divided house and I do not choose to cast a vote at this time."

Following Mayor Remmel's statement, City Attorney Crowley stated that the question will automatically go into the next general election. Statute laws preventing the appearance of such a question in a general election less than 40 days after its presentation to the council, takes the issue out of the November election. The aldermen made no move to call a special election, which is possible by a three-fourth vote of the body.

A petition from Harry J. Rendall, 213 Main st., asked that his soft drink parlor operator's license be cancelled and a new license be issued to T. J. Eskofski at the same location. The matter was referred to the fire and police committee and the chief of police. A recommendation to grant the petition was passed by a six to four vote.

The city council has been invited to attend a dinner meeting of the city school board relative to the school budget, Mayor Remmel announced. The meeting will be held in the high school building Tuesday evening.

WITE OFFICIALS TO PLANNING MEETING

Menasha—An invitation to attend the fourth annual conference of the Wisconsin city and regional planning association has been received by city officials. The meeting will be held in Kenosha, Oct. 30-31 and will be featured by an inspection of Kenosha to illustrate several principles of association purposes.

URGES OBSERVANCE OF NAVY DAY IN CITY

Mayor N. G. Remmel Issues Proclamation on Significance of Occasion

Menasha—A proclamation, urging Menasha residents to observe Navy Day on the anniversary of Theodore Roosevelt's birthday next Monday was issued by Mayor N. G. Remmel Friday morning.

"It was appropriate and fitting that the president should fix the birthday of that great man for this purpose, because no president ever realized as thoroughly as he that the navy was our first line of defense and our surest means of preserving peace," he said.

"While we admire the deeds of glory of this branch of our armed service, we are apt to forget its usefulness and activities in time of peace. Our agriculture and manufacture surplus must find markets abroad and our standing as producers and shippers must depend on receiving the same favor and privileges as other nations. Our prestige only can be maintained by an efficient navy to protect a merchant marine to carry our products in American bottoms. Let us forget the glories as well as the horrors of war and honor our navy as a great instrument of national progress."

"I therefore urge that the interest and admiration of our people be demonstrated and admiration of our people be demonstrated by the display of our national colors on all public buildings and on homes and places of business. I further urge that appropriate exercises be held in our schools and all public gatherings."

Paris Blames Chicago Gang "Romance" For Crime Wave

BY MINOTT SAUNDERS
Paris—The "romance" of Chicago gangland is now being blamed for a wave of crime that has broken out in France.

It may be a coincidence, but banditry of a peculiar nature is greatly troubling the police and in their investigations they profess to find American methods employed. They have become alarmed and are working energetically to break up gangs before the danger becomes worse.

The press has observed that the crime wave grew since two Paris newspapers have been giving striking publicity to the operations of criminal gangs in the larger American cities. A series of articles by Geo. London on the underworld of Chicago appeared in Le Journal, describing his personal investigations there and reporting his interviews with gangsters. Another Paris newspaper has conducted an inquiry into the causes of gang warfare in the United States.

The suggestion is that these stories of how expert gangsters operate have stirred the imagination of criminal classes and furnished ideas that might be applied here. Robberies and attacks of a bold nature have been referred to as parallels of American lawlessness.

Detectives have been able to make many captures and they report that most of the crimes here have been committed by youths, or in many cases mere boys who have banded together, ready to take desperate chances and to shoot quickly if interfered with. They are resented as amateurs, but they are all the more dangerous because they have big ideas.

Such expressions as "taken for a ride" and "on the spot" are pointed in English and become common phrases. Edgar Wallace's play of the Chicago underworld, "On the Spot," is showing at a local theater. When Jack Diamond was being hounded about Europe in an attempt to get some free footing his adventures were given much publicity and an air of captivated mystery was created about him as "king of New York's underworld."

One columnist wrote regretfully that he did not come to France because "he would be an interesting study and we have heard so much about him that we are sorry to miss him." Another and more serious writer ventured to state that Al Capone is one of the best known Americans to French school boys of the kind that like blood and thunder stories.

One type of crime that has aroused public indignation here is that of "taking for a ride" a taxicab driver. The stunt is to engage a taxi and give an address in the outskirts. There the chauffeur is overpowered, beaten up and often shot, and then robbed. This has been repeated so often that the chauffeurs' union is trying to get police permission to allow its members to work armed.

There have been several instances of bandits knocking out a driver, leaving him by the roadside and taking the car back to the city where it was abandoned. Bandits have also been operating with high-powered cars and pulling holdups on quiet highways.

Prefect of Police Jean Chlappe has taken drastic measures to clean up Paris and he has established, for the first time here, a corps of motorcycle police to patrol the outlying districts and be prepared to give pursuit to automobile bandits. The underworld has been combed for suspicious characters. Among those who have been found guilty are several youngsters whose careers have been short but whose ambitions in crime were astonishing.

For some time there has been evidence of operations of criminal gangs in Marseilles, bringing influence in local affairs and disturbing labor unions, but Paris has been singularly free of this sort of thing. The apache, so well known in legend, is practically extinct like the Bad Man of the Golden West, but in his place has come the smoother criminal, who appears to be taking a lesson from American gangland.

FUNDS FOR WELFARE TOTAL MORE THAN GOVERNMENT COSTS

Small Business Men Expected to Retrench With Industrial Workers

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
New York—Allowing $2,000,000,000 a year in payments for the world war, annual appropriations by the United States congress are now less than the total of benefactions from individuals and organizations to charity, education and social welfare work.

In good times and bad, year by year, the total of gifts, from the wide mite to the philanthropist's millions, steadily increases as the demands for individual aid, for institutional and community relief and betterment projects, also increase. Discounting war debts, less money goes to all the constructive agencies of government work than for the demerit fight against poverty, malnutrition, illiteracy, industrial disorganization and crime as waged by private individuals.

Figures of total benefactions for the nine years including and following 1921 cover a period of both adversity and prosperity and lie within an era of cheap money, so that an annual increase which they disclose need not be considered with regard to money shrinkage. These figures are as follows:

INCREASE IS LARGE

This increase of $717,220,000 in annual relief expenditures, enough to build the Panama Canal twice every year, might indicate either that America is getting richer or poorer, one might want to construe it. Inquiry among specialists and statisticians reveals the fact that, from the national viewpoint, no adequate studies have been made of the changing of social work and there is no national coordination of work exact segregation of gifts as between large and small donations. These thousands of millions keep on rolling in and are annually dispersed, but beyond this the records do not disclose a great deal.

Indications from various sources show that this year's total of benefactions, in spite of straitened resources, will be considerably greater than last year and that this sum might pass the two and one-half billion mark. Homer Borst, of the American Association of Community Chests, today reported generous gifts to relief work contributing sums far above the usual.

About 75 per cent of charity and relief funds are supplied by a comparatively few wealthy persons," said Mr. Borst. "We have not compiled detailed figures, but I am convinced that these persons are generally increasing their donations over the year."

"There will be increases in community chest funds throughout the country, but these increases probably will not fully meet needs."

EXPECTS DIFFICULTIES
believe many chests will put on supplementary campaigns. All chests are organized for intensive work after the resumption of prosperity is the hope of a depression. Days are felt for considerable periods.

GOVERNORSHIP IN PENNSYLVANIA IS EYED BY HEMPHILL

Name Has Been Before Chester-co Bar Without Break Since 1791

Copyright 1930 by Cons. Press
Philadelphia—(CPA)—There has been a Hemphill at the Chester-co bar without a break since the first class was graduated from the law school of the University of Pennsylvania in 1791.

This back stretch of 133 years, uncovering the remote antecedents of John Mickle Hemphill, young Democratic candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, is indicative of the range and penetration of this, the hottest gubernatorial battle in years.

welfare finance. This study was inaugurated by the welfare council of New York city, clearing house of the city's 1,200 relief organizations. Dr. A. J. Todd, head of the department of sociology of Northwestern university, has accepted the directorship of this study, which will survey a period of seventeen years.

"Small business men and industrial workers are no doubt compelled to retrench," said Mr. Todd, "and persons of ample means are supplying a large proportion of welfare funds. As to large bequests, periods of depression are not registered immediately. Perhaps in five or ten years, with the probing of wills now being made, the effect of the business depression in this regard will be more easily measurable."

In which both Republicans and Democrats are backing Hemphill against the dry Clifford Pinchot.

Riding to hounds, commanding a yacht and holding membership in many clubs, Hemphill is a survival of the squire tradition, indigenous in Pennsylvania, particularly around Philadelphia. He might be just an aristocrat in politics, were it not for the fact that he has long been interested in democracy, with both the large and the small "D," and has disclosed an informed interest in public affairs which, with all his aloofness from the rough and tumble politics of Pennsylvania, has drawn him inevitably into a public career.

Mr. Hemphill's heritage appears to have outfitted him at birth with Theodore Roosevelt's prescription—a big stick and gentle speech.

OF SCOTCH, IRISH
His paternal forebears were Scotch-Irish and his maternal quaker. His friends say that he reveals a combination of restraint and latent but rarely disclosed belligerency. His father, who lives with him at the age of 85, is E. Dallett Hemphill. His mother was Rebecca Mickle, descended from the English Quaker family of Mickle, whose land grants in southern New Jersey antedated William Penn's grants in Pennsylvania.

The South Jersey royal grants were to three families, the Coopers, Kaighns and Mickle. The first American Hemphill of the family connection settled in Chester-co early in the eighteenth century.

In the World War, Mr. Hemphill was an officer of Company K, Forty-Seventh infantry, Fourth division. He was in engagements from the Marne to the Vesle and was in the battles of St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne. He is now a law partner of C. Barton Brewster. He is honorary consul for Pennsylvania of the Latvian republic, formerly a

New York—The Greek comedy "Lysistrata," surviving a bitter attack by church dignitaries and others, will go on the road, with three companies taking it to Chicago and the west coast.

The uncensored version of Aristophanes' robust drama, beautifully produced, has packed a large New York theatre nightly for nearly a year. Some of the ancient wisecracks joined even the tall brows in attendance and it looked as if the opening reviews might be written by the police reporters. But the play was saved, not only by its classical origin but by deftness and fine artistry in producing and acting, sufficient to subordinate its incidental affront to modern proprieties.

Veterans of Broadway are wondering if the rest of the country will like Queen Victoria, be "not amused." In the hands of actors less competent than those of the present production, it might easily appear much more raffish than it really is, and start riot calls here and there. The first road company will open in Chicago Nov. 4, under the auspices of the Philadelphia Theatre association.

CALL MEETING TO OUTLINE RELIEF FOR UNEMPLOYED

Representative Citizens to Gather at City Hall Tuesday Evening

New London—Plans for relieving unemployment conditions during the winter will be the object of the meeting at the city hall next Tuesday evening. Mayor E. W. Wendlandt has called this meeting in compliance with a similar movement started in other cities.

The present state of unemployment is felt by all classes of people, he pointed out. Several of the city's most reliable sources of employment have curtailed production, and office men, day laborers, skilled employees and salaried men find themselves facing a difficult period, it is feared. Women of church and fraternal organizations have evidenced their willingness to do away with the annual rummage sales of clothing. These sales have always been an expected source of revenue, but many feel that all clothing thus contributed should be turned over to the school nurse, Miss Loretta Rice who is in touch with homes where such material is needed.

In accordance with the plans of the mayor, a committee will be formed to map out a program of action. It probably will consist of a chest fund for unemployed persons.

SENATORIAL FIGHT IN ILLINOIS MIGHT BE GRUDGE BATTLE

All Three Candidates Nursing Old Sores Against Each Other

BY OWEN L. SCOTT

Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press

Chicago—If the candidates were inclined to permit it, the senatorial campaign now being waged in Illinois might easily develop into a grudge affray.

There is the groundwork for a no-quarter fight, but the presence of two feminine candidates and the gl- lantry of the masculine contender have thrown the battle to a higher plane where good humor has taken the place of the underhand dig.

One of the great grudge fights of modern politics—although not placed in that category by the contestants themselves—was waged during the April primary when Ruth Hanna McCormick won the Republican nomination for the senatorship from Charles S. Deneen.

Senator Deneen had put an end to the ambitious political program of Medill McCormick, the late husband of Mrs. McCormick, by winning the Republican nomination from him in 1924. Senator McCormick died shortly after, broken in spirit. Six years later, Ruth Hanna McCormick placed a period after at least one phase of Senator Deneen's forty years in politics.

LEWIS HAS GRUDGE TOO

Col. J. Ham Lewis might be entitled to his grudge, too. For back in 1918, it was Medill McCormick who defeated him for reelection to the United States senate, and now years later he is meeting the widow of his opponent.

At the same time Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill has a deep-seated and often expressed grudge against Mrs.

McCormick, based on supposed efforts of the Republican nominee—often denied—to thwart Mrs. O'Neill's political ambitions.

As a matter of fact, Illinois is enjoying a campaign by as interesting and astute a group of candidates as any the country has to offer.

Mrs. McCormick continues to play a masterly game of politics, utilizing tactics she first learned as a right-hand worker for her father, Mark Hanna. Again she has found her father's policy of intensive campaigning most effective. Her battle has been carried by nearly 16,000 miles of automobile travel, into every nook and cranny of the state. The organization built up through years of effort is coming in handy during the most difficult of her recent political fights. And in her third state-wide campaign in two years, Mrs. McCormick continues to draw large crowds.

CALLED "BIGGEST DUDE"

Colonel Lewis, the Democratic nominee, well known along in his sixties, has retained the flair for dress that caused Champ Clark years ago to dub him "the biggest dude in America," but the shock of red hair is a trifle thinner and the once pink whiskers have grayed.

However, the years have not removed the gold from the Lewis voice and the hustings of Illinois have resounded again with the old fashioned oratory so popular in the days of Lincoln and Stephen Douglas. Like Mrs. McCormick, Colonel Lewis has given the state a thorough going-over before landing just now in Chicago where the candidates are putting on their final fling before the voting Nov. 4.

Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, the independent dry candidate, is without a definite organization or the financial needed to care for big crowds. Her campaign has been without the flair of those made by candidates of the major parties, but on the size of her vote may rest the outcome of the fight for the senatorship in Illinois.

FOOD DOCTORS

PENN BATTLE INELECTION STIRSNATION

Pinchot Center of Bitter Struggle Between Opposing Factions

Harrisburg, Pa. (AP)—Political upheavals in Pennsylvania, where for years Republican nomination has been equivalent to election to statewide offices, have intrigued the interest of the nation.

Gifford Pinchot, who won the Republican nomination for governor in one of the most exciting primaries in the history of the commonwealth, has been deserted by the Philadelphia Republican organization, which heretofore has been counted upon to return a majority of 250,000 for the Republican nominees.

John M. Hemphill, the Democratic and liberal candidate, heretofore unheard of in the political arena, has been made the beneficiary of the Philadelphia Republican organization support. In addition leaders of the wet wing of the Republican party, which sought to nominate wet candidates at the Republican primary, chose Hemphill as their nominee of the liberal party.

Successions from both candidates for governor have been innumerable. A new bolt has been recorded in the press nearly every day of the campaign. Among the sensations have been the withdrawal of W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, as a member of the Republican National committee because he could not support the entire Republican ticket and the desertion of Hemphill by William B. Wilson, secretary of labor in the cabinet of Woodrow Wilson and the Democratic candidate for the United States senate against William S. Vare in 1926.

FACE MANY ISSUES
While Pinchot is a strong exponent of prohibition and Hemphill is an ardent advocate of repeal, many other issues have entered the campaign. Chief among these factors is the much-debated public utility issue. Pinchot's promise is to eliminate the public service commission which he claims is controlled by the utilities and to substitute a fair rate board is credited with having alienated powerful interests throughout the state.

Interest in the gubernatorial fight transcends all other contests, although a United States senator, a lieutenant governor, a secretary of internal affairs, a judge of the state supreme court, two judges of the state superior court, half of the state senate, an entire state house of representatives and 36 congressmen are to be elected.

James J. Davis, secretary of labor under three presidents, is the Republican candidate for the senate, while Sedgwick Kistler, wealthy Lock Haven manufacturer, is the Democratic nominee.

A break in the solid phalanx of Republican votes in the Pennsylvania congressional delegations was assumed at the primary last May when Patrick J. Bohland, a Democrat, won the Democratic, Republican and labor nominations from the 11th (Lackawanna-co) district. He will succeed Col. Lawrence H. Waters of Scranton, who was not a candidate for reelection. Strong fights are being waged in several other districts by Democratic candidates, but Republican leaders say they are confident of reelecting nearly all the present members. Pinchot, then governor, refused to issue the usual certificate of election to William S. Vare after the election of 1926 and instead transmitted to the United States senate a "certificate of doubt" in connection with which he said Vare's election was "partly bought and partly stolen." This action, Republican leaders believe, was partly responsible for Vare's subsequent rejection by the senate.

The intense antagonism between Pinchot and the Philadelphia Republican organization has often flared up to fever heat but never more intensely than during the primary campaign in which Pinchot defeated the Vare Candidate, Francis Shunk Brown, by 20,000 votes in a three-cornered fight in which the wet candidate, former Congressman Thomas W. Phillips, drew more than 280,000 votes.

For the first time since Robert E. Pattison was elected in 1890, a Democratic candidate for governor is conceded by some political leaders a chance of election.

United States Senator Joseph R. Grundy, who was defeated for the Republican nomination to succeed himself has reminded the state of the national significance of the campaign. He recalled that election of a Democratic governor in Pennsylvania in 1882 and again in 1890 was followed by election of a Democratic president of the United States.

is much more emotional than the attacks on Mr. Wilson. The feeling prevails in many quarters that Mr. Hoover last October did not act promptly, that he should have vetoed the tariff bill, and that he should have been more active than he was in undoing the so-called boon propaganda of the preceding administration. Summed up, all these criticisms merely mean that the president is suffering from the same thing that other presidents have encountered, namely, a depressed morale on the part of the business community which usually expresses itself in the form of an attack on the president.

EFFECT ON OTHERS
There are, of course, some businessmen with experience in political trends as well as with the fickleness of public opinion who are predicting that if business conditions are better in 1932 Mr. Hoover's reelection will be assured; but meanwhile the political stock of the administration is quite low and some fantastic criticisms of the administration are being made from day to day which probably will be reflected in a loss of votes to the Republican party. The unemployment situation is working against the Republicans to such a large extent that in the financial and business districts here the general exception is that the Republicans will lose control of one or possibly both houses of congress. In other words, politically speaking the psychology is unfavorable to the Hoover administration, but if there should be an upturn in business in the next week or so, or even a boost in the stock market, this same pessimism, which has been giving vent to his feeling in the form that President Hoover is being blamed for many things over which he could not possibly have any control, but that is the traditional habit of the average man in politics and it will be felt in a reduced Republican strength in congress.

HALTING WITCHES
London—Zigzag patterns so often painted on walls, fireplaces and other parts of a house weren't put there for mere decorations. According to Stuart Piggott, an authority on English folk lore, this type of decoration was used in olden days to keep witches out of a house. Since most of them were supposed to enter by a chimney, these lines were traced on the hearthstone.

COMMUNITY TEST FOR ABORTION IN CATTLE ADVISED

Farmers Accomplish More When They Work Together, Expert Points Out

BY W. F. WINSEY
Greenville—One hundred fifty local dairymen attended the contiguous abortion in cattle conference conducted in the South Greenville Grange hall Thursday evening by Gus Sell, county agent, assisted by Dr. V. S. Larson, cattle specialist of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture and Markets. At the close of the talks the conference developed into a round-table discussion.

The talks, questions and replies, and discussions followed the lines of those of the afternoon meeting at Dale. The purpose of the series of dairymen's meetings in the Outagamieco this week is the adoption of a method of clearing the herds of contagious abortion to increase the profits of dairymen and to place the cattle of Outagamie-co on the crest of popularity and demand within and beyond the borders of Wisconsin.

It appeared from the discussions at the Greenville and Dale meetings that dairymen within the state prefer cows for replacement from herds free from the germs of abortion and many outside states are requiring blood tests as a passport for the admittance of cattle from neighboring states. It also appeared that each local dairymen wants to know whether any of his cows are infected, and which ones, if any.

The first thing for a farmer to do if he suspects that his herd is infected is to have the animals tested by a local veterinarian, according to Dr. Larson. But testing is not worth anything unless the owner of the herd adopts a sanitary herd management program, proposed by the veterinarian doing the testing, for cleaning up the herd.

URGES JOINT ACTION
Testing herds can be done more economically and sanitary methods of eradication can be made more effective if all the farmers in a community join in a movement to knock out contagious abortion. The veterinarian can save travel if the farmers join in the movement and do his work expeditiously and economically. In case the herds of a community are being cleaned up, simultaneously the danger of understanding the cleaning up work by infected cows and clean cows coming in contact at line fences, is reduced to a minimum.

The cost of testing the cows of community groups of farmers is 50 cents per animal including the work of the veterinarian in planning a sanitation program for the owner of each herd. Re-tests follow at the close of 90 day intervals until the eradication is complete.

The infected animals are kept on one side of a stable and the healthy animals on the other side. The same divisions apply to the cattle yards and pastures.

"If a cow reacting to the blood test for contagious abortion is confined in the pen for three weeks after calving, 90 per cent of the chances of her spreading the disease to other cattle of the herd are removed," Dr. Larson said. "In a short time, a farmer who tests his cattle and adopts a sanitation program may change his herd from an infected to a clean herd by eliminating the infected cows and saving his neighbors." Dr. Larson named a number of famous herds in the state that have been cleaned up in that manner.

Testing the cattle of Outagamieco in groups, on account of its effectiveness and economy, is Mr.
Sell's plan, according to Dr. Larson.
SELL WILL HELP
Mr. Sell will receive applications of farmer groups and of individual farmers for testing cows, assist in making arrangements for testing, file records of all tests in his office and assist in the sale of infected and clean animals.

Dr. Larson was emphatic in his statement that veterinary science has thus far found no cure for contagious abortion in cattle. All cures claimed by medicine manufacturers and vendors have as their foundation the fact that after a cow aborts once, her body will develop such a strong defense against the germs she carries that she will not abort a second time.

"Money spent for abortion cures is money wasted," Dr. Larson said.
In January, Gust Sell, county agent, and Dr. Larson are to hold another series of meetings on contagious abortion.

APPROVE REPARATION FOR APPLETON FIRM

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—The Standard Manufacturing Company of Appleton will receive $13.20 reparation for overcharges on a shipment of doors from Appleton to Cleveland, Ohio, under a decision just handed down by the Interstate Commerce Commission.
The shipment, weighing 24,000 pounds, was made November 14, 1929, and $38.80 was collected by the railroads at the applicable rate of 37 cents per 100 pounds. At that time, a rate of 34.5 cents to Cleveland applied from Marshfield, Wisconsin Rapids, and Wausau, all of which points are more distant than Appleton.
On April 1, 1928, a rate of 31.5 cents was established from Appleton to Cleveland, and the Standard Manufacturing Company asked that this rate be found reasonable on the shipment under discussion. At the time of the shipment, a rate of 31.5 cents applied from Neenah, which is only 6.8 miles nearer Cleveland than is Appleton.
Examiner Leland F. James sustained the complainant's claim and based his reparation award on the difference between the 31.5 cent rate and the 37 cent rate charged.
The Commission upheld his decision.

INSULL EMPLOYEES JOIN WAR AGAINST DISTRESS
Chicago —(P)— Dollars from the pay checks of officers and employees of the Insull utility companies promised today a potent fund to fight distress during the winter months.
Samuel Insull, head of the group, announced that one day's pay a month for six months would be given in voluntary contributions by the entire personnel of his organizations.
It was estimated by one company official that the gift would amount to more than $100,000 per month.

SHARE PRICES ON N. Y. STOCK MART HIT BIG ADVANCES

Weight of Liquidation Is Completely Lifted on Wall Street

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER

Associated Press Financial Editor

New York—(AP)—Share prices mounted upward in today's stock market with the familiar resilience that appears when the weight of liquidation is completely lifted.

Even the rails, a contrary group yesterday, joined the recovery, as it was carried into its second day. The market appeared to be governed primarily by technical conditions, and trading was light. The remarks of leaders of the steel industry at the general meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute, however, and giving of hostilities in Brazil, were immuting to speculative sentiment.

Furthermore, the fact that it was the anniversary of the critical black hour of the selling panic a year ago, brought out in clear relief the extent the salutary readjustments

high have been accomplished.

In the rails, recovery of the Van

Wagoner issue was conspicuous.

U. S. Steel, Erie and Chesapeake and Ohio gained 3 points or more. Other shares making similar

Insult, Westinghouse, Good year and Macy, while such shares as

American Can, Buyers and Eastman dropped 4 to 5, and Allied Chemical, more than 7. Montgomery Ward sagged moderately.

Leads of the steel industry, at a meeting a year ago, were inclined to minimize the probable effects of the decline in the steel mill operations, then apparent, but today's speakers demonstrated that faith in the future of the industry had not been impaired by the intervening months that have intervened.

They found the basic structure sound, and stated that by remaining unimpaired by the retailoring, and over expansion, the industry might struggle back to normalcy in a reasonably short time.

James A. Farrell, president of U. S.

Steel, asserted that through co-operation, the industry could get business "where it belongs" in 60

News from Brazil indicating that the revolution had been concluded in a little less than a year, and property damage caused a fresh decline in the stock market.

Hogs Retain Strength Scored Previous Day—Try to Improve Prices

Chicago—(AP)—Hogs retained strength scored on the previous day and commission houses launched an effort to bring about a further improvement in prices. The immediate objective was to establish the 10.00 hog on a firm basis, but this was not achieved during the first hour's trading. Fresh receipts of 16,000 were lighter than a week ago.

Packers reported only 1,800 hogs received direct, but there were 9,000

state hogs on hand. On a firm start shippers were active paying up to 9.85 for medium and strong weight butchers.

Packers' direct receipts accounted for 200 head of supply of 2,500 cattle marketed here. The number of westerners offered was negligible.

Quality of the natives was good and buyers were active early in the morning, but met with demands for higher prices.

Sheep and lamb receipts included

5,700 billed direct to killing plants.

Fat lambs were dumped freely during the closing hours of Thursday's session, thus giving packers much independence of action today. Weak-

PRICES OF WHEAT ON CHICAGO MART REMAIN UNCHANGED

Good Progress Reported as Being Made by Domestic Wheat Crops

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN

Associated Press Market Editor

Chicago—(AP)—Good progress reported as being made by domestic winter wheat crops, especially in Kansas, tended to ease down the wheat market today toward the last.

Advices regarding Nebraska and some other states told of decreased acreage of winter wheat, but crop authorities here said it was still too early to determine the total area seeded. Under such circumstances, price gains which at times were scored in the wheat market were more than wiped out.

Rallies in wheat prices at times today lifted the Chicago market to above yesterday's finish, influenced somewhat by Canadian reports that large quantities of wheat in Alberta and Saskatchewan provinces are still unthreshed and are deteriorating on account of moisture damage and sprouting. Meanwhile, too, wheat prices continued to show increasing responsiveness to stock market upturns, and to assertions in various quarters that commodities, including grain, are on a bargain counter basis. Besides, talk was current that estimates of European wheat import needs appear likely to be increased.

On the other hand, overnight ev-port demand for wheat from North America was described as very limited. Moreover, Argentine official wheat acreage figures showed that the planted area in Argentina is 21,307,000 acres, compared with a previous estimate of 20,100,000 acres.

An opposite factor, though, was the primary receipts of wheat today in the United States amounted to but 670,000 bushels, against 1,

278,000 bushels a year ago. Corn and oats followed wheat.

Provisions reflected firmness of hog values.

POLITICAL MAP IN CONFUSION AS 47 STATES GO TO VOTE

Major Political Parties Split Over Many Issues in Campaign

BY BYRON PRICE
Washington—(P)—Another nationwide political campaign is nearing its climax amid a confusion of men and measures which is at once reminiscent and prophetic.
Over the protest of those party leaders who would prefer to forgive and forget, a "strong" savor of ingredients smuggled from the troubled ferment of 1928 lingers about the political mixing-bowls of 1930.
And the leaves that come from the over election day will be sampled with many a wistful conjecture about political appetites in the presidential year 1932.
To say it with statistics, the voters this year will choose a complete new house of representatives, consisting of 435 members; 35 senators who will sit in the new congress after March 4, and five others who will fill out interrupted terms expiring March 4; the governors of 33 states; and minor state officials in eight others.

LOCAL QUESTIONS, TOO
The electorate also will decide, by referendum, a combined total of 162 local questions propounded on ballots of 31 states but Maine, which clings to the custom of electing in September, will vote on a single election day—November 4.
Stated differently, and from a national viewpoint, the voters will say whether President Hoover is to continue to have in office with him a congress overwhelmingly Republican. They will settle certain local unpleasantnesses over candidates who bolted their party ticket two years ago; will, conceivably, sort over in a preliminary way certain others who aspire to graduate into presidential candidates two years hence.

NO 'DOMINATING' NOTE
Perhaps, too, they will give the politicians a little more light and guidance on popular sentiment on such questions as prohibition.
Only in the most general way is it possible to state the issues on which the election will turn. In the beginning, it was the issue of Republican and Democratic spokesmen alike that the record of the half-completed Hoover administration should be the dominating note.

It is true that much talk has ensued about the President's attitude toward business depression, unemployment, the tariff, the drought and what-not, but the effort to maintain a national party front has produced results which might be called surprising even for a time of political tumult.
If it were possible to lay out a map of the political trenches shortly before election, the line of battle would be found somewhat more crooked than a buzz-saw's edge.
In the never-quiet prohibition sector, for instance, wet Republicans and wet Democrats in such states as New York and New Jersey stand almost side by side, facing directly the dry Republicans and dry Democrats of such states as Kansas, while in an over-populated no-man's-land between burn campsfires of a great host of Republicans and Democrats in every state and degree of moist-ness.

MANY PARTY SPLITS
On the tariff issue, a sizable section of the west sees duly chosen Republican nominees campaigning against the revision bill signed by the President, while a conspicuous group of Democrats defend votes they cast for this same bill.
In Nebraska Senator Norris seeks reelection as a Republican, he bolted Hoover, and is proud of it. In Alabama Senator Heflin fights for another term as an independent Democrat who bolted Smith, and would do it again. Ohio Democrats have named a wet for senate, and a dry for governor. A dry Democrat battles a wet Republican for the senate in Montana.

FEW POINTS OF SOLIDARITY
The best that can be said is that a few points there is: chance of solidarity. Democrats generally have attacked Mr. Hoover on the score of business conditions, and the Republicans generally have defended him.

Democrats generally, including the party headquarters, have assailed the Republican tariff, and the Republican headquarters and Republican state parties have defended it. In more than a dozen states the Democrats have adopted unqualified declarations for repeal of the prohibition amendment, while on the Republican side such declarations are rare.
It remains for the future to say in what degree these circumstances forecast the national platforms of 1932.

Although the election books list 435 representatives and 35 senators to be chosen to the next congress, the disputed territory by no means covers so extensive an area. In most of the south, and many other safely Democratic or Republican sections, the decision already has been made in the primaries.

DISTRICTS SCATTERED
Actually, in the calculations of party strategists, it comes down in 1930 to about 15 senatorships and 75 places in the house.

The 75 house districts are scattered widely, for the most part one or two to a state. Even the Republican leaders concede their party strength almost outdid itself in the Hoover landslide two years ago, when many normally Democratic districts went Republican. They are prepared to lose most of these—perhaps as many as 40.

To have a house majority the Democrats must stretch this figure into a Democratic gain of 54.

In the senate, where only one-third of the membership is replaced at a time, the margin of possibilities is reduced within narrower limits.
Something like half of the sena-torships involved lie in undisputed territory.

Among the 15 or so debatable senatorships remaining, the Democrats not only must hold what they have—and at least two Democratic senators, Walsh of Montana, and Stock of Iowa, face serious opposition—but they must register a net gain of 10 to have a senate majority.

LOOK TO 'BORDER' STATES

For their supreme effort in the senatorial campaign, then, the Democrats look to such states as Massachusetts and Rhode Island, carried by Smith in 1928; Oklahoma, normally Democratic; Nebraska, where the quarrel in Republican ranks over Senator Norris gives hope to supporters of former Senator Hitchcock; Illinois, where former Senator Lewis opposes the turbulent Republican cohorts supporting Ruth Hanna McCormick; and Kentucky, Colorado, Ohio, West Virginia, Delaware,

REAL WEATHER STORY

Humbird, — (P)—Here's the latest spectable citizen; The citizen said he went hunting after last week's sudden freeze. Near the shore of Lake Emerson, he saw a flock of five cormorants. He eased up on them and

SILVER HOARDERS SHOT BY SOVIET FIRING SQUADS

Four Arrested, Tried and Killed in Single Day for Hoarding Coins

BY VICTOR G. C. EUBANK
(Associated Press Correspondent)
Moscow (P)—No halfway measures are used by the Soviet government in discouraging counter-revolutionary tendencies in the Union.

Recently there was a serious shortage of small silver coins, such as the 10, 15 and 20-kopeck pieces. The dreaded OGPU got busy and, in a few days, a brief announcement from this secret service organization stated that four silver hoarders had been arrested, tried and shot, all within the space of a single day.

After this announcement it was possible to get change now and then for a ruble note. But the OGPU was not through. It was evidenced by brief paragraphs in the press of further executions and imprisonments. Since then, while there has been no plethora of silver change, persons patronizing the shops have not been forced, as previously, to take postage stamps or due bills in the place of small coins.

Most of the small silver hoarding has been blamed on the Russian peasant, who, even when a communist, has the idea that hard metal is far superior to paper money.

The authorities do not blame the peasant so much as they do the traders, cashiers and others whom they accuse of propagandizing the peasants on the insecurity of bank notes.

The OGPU claims to have captured and shot the leaders of this conspiracy against Soviet currency and efforts are now being made to convince the humble muzik that paper money is just as valuable as coin. The peasant apparently does not realize that the actual silver in small Russian coins is of little value, the metal being an alloy that is intended to be durable rather than of intrinsic worth.

The present currency of Russia is in the form of chevron bank notes, treasury notes and silver, copper and bronze coins. A chevron note equals ten rubles and chevron notes are issued in denominations of from one to 50.

The silver coins were issued in values of one ruble, 50 kopecks, and 20, 15 and 10 kopecks. Since pieces have been as scarce as hen's teeth, these larger coins, it is believed, have been buried in pots and the government has little hope of getting them dug up and the campaign is to bring out the smaller coins as an aid to retail business.

In the financial report of last year it was shown that silver, copper and bronze coins to the value of more than 200,000,000 rubles were in circulation.

PLAN HEARINGS FOR CREAMERY OWNERS

Madison (P)—Requests for investigation of charge of unfair trade dealings by creamery owners have led the state department of agriculture and markets to issue a call for five hearings in various parts of the state.

Agricultural commissioners will hold hearings as follows: Prairie du Chien Oct. 27; Sparta, Oct. 28; Barron, Oct. 28; Waupaca, Oct. 30, and Madison, Oct. 31.

HUBER SCORES HIGH ELECTRICITY RATES

Sheboygan (P)—The high prevailing electricity rates reflect the breakdown of the present system of regulation, Henry Huber, Republican nominee for lieutenant governor, said in a campaign speech here Wednesday night.

Under the present laws, the state railroad commission cannot adequately cope with the public utility situation, he said. Laws providing for railroad commission regulation of public utilities and the right of municipalities to take over at cost the operation of private utilities have been rendered useless by changed conditions, he said.

"Progressives propose merely that the people should have the right to take over their utilities if they wish to do so and that municipal plants should have the same rights and privileges as private plants," he said.

Spokane, Wash., health authorities estimate that from an inch to an inch and a half of dust settles yearly in homes on unpaved streets.

NEW ETCHINGS IN COLLEGE EXHIBIT

Works by Charles Morgan, Chicago Artist, Are Put on Display

Selected etching of architectural studies and Czechoslovakian etchings will comprise the Lawrence college art exhibits for November, according to Mrs. H. M. Wriston. The architectural subjects which will be on display are those of Charles Morgan, noted Chicago artist who has also established a reputation as an architect. Mr. Morgan is a graduate of the University of Illinois and a former pupil at the Art Institute. He does not confine his artistic work to etchings, but also does excellent work in water colors, lithographs, and pastels.

However Mr. Morgan is best known because of his architectural works. A few years ago he was commissioned by metropolitan newspapers to travel in various countries and report for them in pictures his impressions of the different types of architecture with which he met. Drawings, pastels and etchings from Spain, France and England were the result, many of which are in the present exhibit. Charles Morgan also is an able portraitist. The sketch of Frank Lloyd Wright, Wisconsin architect, is one of his best productions.

The Czechoslovakian portion of the art exhibit includes in addition to etchings, samples of handwork and shawls which have recently been on exhibit in the Czechoslovakian Art Gallery in Chicago. The etchings in this exhibit include the works of T. S. Simon, Peter Dillinger, Vladimir Zilovsky, and Wilimovsky. Beautiful portrayals of the mountain panorama of Czechoslovakia comprise the subject matter. These exhibits will be on display in the art alcoves of the Lawrence library during November.

Lawrence Gridders Hope For Win Over Carroll

VIKINGS IN SHAPE FOR BIG GAME

Win Over Pioneers Will Give Blue and White Edge in Big Four Race

A light limbering up workout tonight ended the week's practice for the Lawrence college football team which now rests until the opening whistle tomorrow afternoon which will send the Vikings against Carroll college in the feature attraction of the annual Lawrence homecoming. The game will begin at 2 o'clock.

Cheered on by a homecoming crowd, with knowledge that they have at least an even chance for a victory, and trained to razor edge, the Vikings are confident about the outcome of the afternoon's game. Too, they know they have a record to keep unblemished—that of never having been defeated by a Carroll eleven on an Appleton grid.

A victory over Carroll also will brand the Blue and White as a possible Big Four champions. The Vikings have met and defeated Beloit by a 25 to 0 score and if Lawrence now can turn the trick with them, the season's fears will be over. A win from Carroll leaves only Ripon to be overcome.

But to claim a victory over the Pioneers before the last game tomorrow afternoon is a little premature, for as usual, Coach Norris Armstrong has a good team that will give Lawrence fans plenty to worry about. The team is not as impressive as in recent years, perhaps, but nevertheless it is a good team and composed of veteran men who know the fine points of the game very well.

PACKERS GIVE POINTERS
Drills during the last week have been moderate. Monday and Tuesday evenings the workouts were light but Wednesday night Mike Michalske and Jug Barpe from Green Bay were over at Whiting field and showed the boys some of the fine points of line play as played by professional griders. Mike and Jug, of course, are two of the Green Bay Packers and jumped the opportunity to help their old side kick, Eddie Kotal.

Realizing that Saturday, he will be on display before the alumni, many of whom cheered him as a player a few years ago, Coach Kotal is anxious to win. It will be his first effort before a homecoming crowd and as Eddie liked to satisfy the fans when playing in homecoming games he feels the same way about coaching his team on homecoming dates.

The backfield of course will show Captain Paul Fischl, Lyn Trankle, Johnny Chakovsky and probably Danny Calhoun. The latter showed himself a mean ball carrier last week and should be given an opportunity to start. That, of course, is up to Kotal.

CARROLL STRONG
Recent games reveal that the Pioneer have a rattling good passing attack again this year. That it can account for touchdowns is shown by the Beloit game where three tallies resulted from passes. But should the Pioneer passers be halted the Orange backs can smash away at the line with devastating results.

Two Pioneer stars are reported to be on the injured list this week. Orlebeke, a quarterback who suffered an injured shoulder against Northwestern's "B" team, and Goerke who injured his ankle last week. Orlebeke hasn't played since being hurt and reports from downstate are that Goerke will be a question until game time.

Lawrence college griders have played but one conference game this season, with Hamline university eleven here last Saturday. The score was 21 and 3 in favor of the Vikings who looked impressive only during the first half when veteran players performed. There is satisfaction in the ball carrying ability of Paul Fischl and Danny Calhoun, however, both boys scoring markers on long runs.

Fischl turned the trick twice during the time he was in the game. Aside from that, however, it must be admitted that Lawrence is weakened by the absence of Ken Laird and his broken jaw, and the absence of Charles Barnes who is nursing a badly twisted ankle. Both men were hurt in the Wisconsin game and being veterans they were looked upon to help Coach Kotal's gang go places.

KIMBERLY GRID TEAM PLAYS ITS LAST GAME

Kimberly—Coach Harper has arranged one more game for his "Red Devils." The Kimberly griders will play host to the newly organized Chilton high school team Saturday afternoon at the ball park.

As both schools are represented for the first time on the gridiron the teams should be evenly matched. The Chilton squad averages 150 pounds, while Harper's eleven is not quite that heavy. The "Red Devils" have the advantage of playing more games and thereby will be more experienced. Coach Harper's squad put up a great exhibition of football last week when they defeated Kaukauna's "B" team 24-6. During this game Harper's backfield men proved to be very capable as plungers, and also have developed a very good passing combination.

Saturday's game will be the last this season for the "Red Devils" for Coach Harper will start basketball practice within a week.

Four Who Carry Vike Hopes

Wisconsin Will "Shoot The Works" Saturday

MADISON—Wisconsin will throw its full strength against Purdue at Rose-Ade Stadium, Saturday, in the all-important contest that will decide whether the Badgers are to go places in the Big Ten. The longest and hardest workout of the year have taken place at Camp Randall during the past two days, Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite driving his squad at a fast pace.

The players have forgotten the ease with which they took Penn into camp last Saturday and have settled down earnestly for the crucial game looming ahead. Thistlethwaite has apparently succeeded in impressing his squad that Purdue will be laying in wait with as powerful a team as it possessed last fall.

The presence of three Purdue coaches in the stands at Camp Randall last Saturday has also served to

DANIELS WINS ON FOUL FROM RISK

Minneapolis Heavyweight Floors Johnny for 9 Count in Second Frame

Boston—(AP)—A new young heavyweight from out of the west has hurled that dangerous stumbling block to all fighters ambitions to reach the inner circle of championship contenders—Johnny Risko of Cleveland.

Dick Daniels of Minneapolis, knocked the Cleveland baker down for the count of nine in the second round of a 10-round match here last night then withstood Johnny's terrific comeback and finally won on a foul in the seventh.

The Minneapolis battler, who was outweighed almost 13 pounds as he entered the ring at 153, first surprised the crowd by scoring a brief knockdown in the first round. Risko seemed dazed as he started the second round and took a terrific right hook to the head. The referee reached nine in his count before Risko got to his feet.

At the start of the third, however, Johnny gave Daniels a heavy beating with blows to the body and kept the barrage up until the end of the contest, although Daniels rallied to win the fifth round and was exchanging punches on even terms when Risko landed a clear low blow after having previously been warned.

Risko forfeited his share of the gate receipts under the Massachusetts rules.

INDIANA DEDICATES MUSTANG STADIUM

Southern Methodists Chastened After 14 to 14 Tie With Baylor

Dallas, Tex.—(AP)—Chastened somewhat by their 14-14 tie with Baylor University last week, the Southern Methodist university Mustangs hope to regain some of their lost prestige when they engage Indiana university in an intersectional tilt here tomorrow.

It will mark the first time a member of the Big Ten has played a Southwest conference team in this state, and advance sales indicate upward of 35,000 spectators will witness the clash. The Methodists already have met one Hoosier eleven this year, losing a close struggle to Notre Dame at South Bend.

With Melton Mason, star halfback, and Malcolm Powell, regular center, still out with knee injuries received against the Ramblers, Southern Methodist will be without its full strength, while it is reported the invaders will present their strongest front for the first time this year.

inspire Wisconsin. Earl Martineau, Purdue's backfield coach and Christy Flannagan and Bill Mackie, assistant coaches, were on hand in violation of the Big Ten ruling which permits but one scout for each school unless the two opposing teams are both met during the season.

Several new plays were given the team Tuesday and rehearsed Wednesday during a long offensive scrimmage. The freshmen squad, equipped with Purdue's formations, then opposed the varsity which presented a stone-wall defense against all running plays. Several forward passes were successful, however, and Thistlethwaite, mindful of the 1929 game when two long aerials netted Purdue's only touchdown, intends to brush his backfield up on this important phase of defensive work.

The starting backfield at Lafayette will probably be composed of Ernie Lusby at fullback; Russ Rehholz and Walter McGuire at halfbacks; and Buckets Goldenberg at quarter. The last name has firmly entrenched himself for the time being by his stellar work at blocking and ball-carrying against Penn.

Thistlethwaite has been concentrating on his second backfield and reserve line material during the past three days. John Schneller fullback; Sam Behr and Muckey Bach, halfbacks; and Jim Wimmer, quarterback are the reserve ball-carriers. Chuck Bratton, tackle; Clarence Edwards and Frank Molinaro, guards; and Doug Simmons, center, are second-string linemen who are being groomed to fill any gaps that may come up.

A squad of 35 players will be taken to Lafayette, leaving Madison late Friday afternoon for Chicago and proceeding to the stadium Saturday morning.

Madison—(AP)—The Wisconsin squad of 33 players will leave here tonight for Lafayette, Ind., to play its first game away from home. It meets the Purdue Boilermakers tomorrow in what promises to be the determining test for the Badgers.

The squad was reported to be in good shape with the exception of five men already lost for the season and Schwoegler, reserve end, who will be left at home to recuperate from a thigh injury received against Pennsylvania last Saturday. Harry Pike, sophomore halfback was limping last night, but is reported ready to go.

The Wisconsin personnel: Backs—Bach, Behr, Gnahab, Goldenberg, Lusby, McGuire, Nelson, Orman, Pike, Rehholz, Schneller, Wimmer.

Linemen—Bratton, Eggers, Edwards, Engleke, Frisch, Kabat, Kruger, Liethan, Lubratovich, Molinaro, Simmons, Smith, Stout, Swiderski and Tobias.

Ends—Vasey, Catlin, Capt. Gantenbein, Graebner, Jensen and Lovshin.

STANDFORD AND U. S. C. CLASH ON WEST COAST

San Francisco—(AP)—Two Pacific coast football "naturals"—Stanford against Southern California and California against Washington—will hold the western gridiron spotlight tomorrow, but the potential champion of the conference will be quietly going about its business in a small stadium in eastern Washington.

Hardly given a nod by gridiron experts before the start of the season, the Washington State Cougars first attracted attention by giving the California Bears a sound 15 to 0 thumping, and on the following Saturday achieved the unbelievable by noosing out the Southern California Trojans 7 to 6.

Tomorrow the Cougars will entertain the Montana grizzlies in their stadium of 10,000 seating capacity, in the rolling hills of the Palouse country around Pullman. Coach "Babe" Hollingsberry is not entertaining much thought of losing.

Appleton high school football team will take a trip down to Sheboygan Saturday morning and clash with the Chair city high school team in the feature attraction of the latter's homecoming celebration. Plans are being made for an elaborate week-end with the grid game the big feature.

Idle for two weeks, Coach Joseph Shields gang is ready for a grueling test Saturday. Many of the lame and hurt members of the squad have returned to the lineup with the long rest, and the rough spots in the attack have been smoothed off by long drills and hard workouts with Lawrence college frosh. The Orange mentor looks for his first win Saturday.

Although the cripples have rejoined the squad, Shields has announced the loss for the season of two other chaps. Freuders has been dropped from the squad, Shields said, while Sanders has been found to be ineligible. Freuders is a tackle and Sanders a guard.

Several changes in the Orange lineup will be made when game time comes around, the result of experiments conducted during the last two weeks. Schniegle has been changed from tackle to end and Peetter will return to his old post at end. Hecker and Rose are the reserve ends.

J. Rosemeier probably will be nominated for left tackle with Frogner in reserve while Kriek has been

Chicago White Sox To Have New Thirdbaseman

BY JOHN B. FOSTER

Copyright 1930

NEW YORK (CPA)—In looking over the younger generation in the minor leagues, some sharp-eyed chap who was "digging them up" for the Chicago White Sox told Charlie Comiskey to draft Goff of Henderson. So he did.

"Who is this Goff of Henderson and where is Henderson?" the fans are asking. Henderson is down in North Carolina and not in Louisiana or Nebraska, as most of the boys guessed, and it was in the thick of a cooking good baseball race last summer in the Piedmont league.

Goff is the third baseman who played for Henderson while the bosses were arguing. There were two clubs in the league that were averse to playing night baseball. They were Raleigh and Henderson and they refused to knuckle down to it until an order from headquarters told them they must do so.

Henderson gave battle to the Piedmont outfit in August and finally came through in September, winner of the pennant for 1930. The spirit with which the team played took the fancy of those who saw it on the diamond and scouts gave the players an optical overhauling when it appeared that the boys on this nine were good enough to win a championship in their league.

As a result the Giants bought the release of a young outfielder by the name of Jones who batted very well. It is usually the case that all Joneses are good batters in baseball and the Giants are particularly anxious to get outfielders who can throw, bat and catch the ball.

While New York was taking Jones, the White Sox were kept informed in regard to Goff. Once the Sox would have laughed at anyone who suggested they might be on the lookout for a third baseman, but no longer.

Willie Kamm of the Sox was not the third baseman in 1930 that he had been in other years. Before the season began, he sulked in California, and lagged in getting to the spring training camp at San Antonio and like practically every player who was slow to report in 1930, he fell off in his skill.

Probably a good trade could be made for Kamm if the Sox actually wish to trade him. If they do make such a trade, they must also gather in a shortstop. They might swap Kamm for Kress of the St. Louis Browns and both teams would gain. It is rumored that two clubs are on the trail to obtain Melillo from St. Louis if they can. Next to Frankie Frisch, Melillo was the smartest major league second baseman this year, out-playing Gehring of Detroit.

MILWAUKEE OFFICIALS WANT M. U.-U. W. GAME

Milwaukee—(AP)—The Milwaukee common council today was involved in sentiment favoring a football game between Marquette University and the University of Wisconsin, the proceeds to go to charity.

The council passed a resolution instructing a special committee to confer with heads of each school concerning likelihood of scheduling the game. In the event no game can be scheduled, the council asked a benefit be staged by champions of the city conference and the suburban pennant winners.

In the backfield, Dietrich has shown well enough during practice sessions to win a berth as a half back. Mortell will call signals and Krohn and Verrier will make up the remainder of the team. Neller, Holterman and Frank are the reserve backfield men.

Sheboygan has played three conference games, has won one, lost one and tied one. The team is said to be light but exceptionally fast and therefore troublesome. And playing its homecoming game, the Chairs will have that psychological edge that means much in a close grid game.

HERE'S A STICKER ON GOOD GRID ETIQUETTE

Stevens Point—(AP)—When, and if, President F. S. Hyer of the Stevens Point Teachers' college attends Saturday's homecoming football game showing the Pointers and Whitewater Teachers, he will find himself in a quandary.

As former president of the Whitewater school, he owes some cheering to the Whitewater eleven. But as president of the Stevens Point school he'll have to give the home team a big hand.

TOM LOUGHRAN IN WIN OVER MAIER

Milwaukee Heavyweight Battler No Match for Ex-Light Heavy Champ

Milwaukee—(AP)—Lightning stabs from the well-directed gloves of Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia, one time light heavyweight champion, last night temporarily excluded the name of Davie Maier, Milwaukee, from the list of up and coming boxers. The judges' decision went to Loughran. Maier collected scant honors from but two rounds of the ten round fight. Loughran weighed 183 and Maier 173.

Each boxer hit the floor once. Loughran slipped in the first round and was down for an instant. In the fifth, Maier hit the canvas but was back on his feet immediately.

Loughran's skill as a boxer was apparent throughout the fight, Maier fanning the air more often than he landed blows. Loughran played a tattoo on Maier's mid-section, but it seemingly did not slow up the Milwaukee boxer. Loughran's ring craftsmanship pulled him out of several tight places as Maier's fists flew.

In the preliminary, Curtis Brown, Milwaukee, 140, won the decision over Joe Azzerella, Milwaukee, 140, in eight rounds. Jimmy Gibbons, St. Paul, 193, punished Jack Barry, Chicago, 173, so severely in the first three rounds of their scheduled six round fight but the referee stopped the bout. Barry was a last minute substitute for Paul Pantaleo. Joey Sutter, Milwaukee, 148, won the decision over Johnny Dettlaff, Milwaukee, 149, in four rounds. Martin Frank, Milwaukee, 167, was awarded the decision over Eddie Besmer, Minneapolis, 173, after four rounds.

EASTERN U. FIRES 6 FROSH GRIDDERS

Dismissed When They Demanded Free Board and Room for Activities

Washington—(AP)—George Washington University today was minus six of its best freshmen football players, who were left out yesterday for demanding free room and board so the earnings from their jobs could be kept as spending money. Six more are under investigation.

The boys were dismissed from the squad by James W. Pixie, director of athletics. Later, after failing to obtain honorable dismissal from President Cloyd H. Marvin, they announced they had withdrawn from the university.

The six are Frank Walsh, Duluth, Minnesota; John Hofstess, Mexico, Missouri; August Newcamp, Erie, Pennsylvania; Charles Robinson, Newark, New Jersey; Vance Jovick, Butte, Montana, and George Venerosa, Pittsburgh. The other half dozen, understood to be in sympathy with the students who demanded money, were not named by the school authorities.

Up to last Thanksgiving room and board as well as athletic scholarships and other concessions were given at George Washington. Then the university announced it was "cleaning house," and such privileges were cancelled.

Pixie said the players this year came "with the definite understanding that he would do nothing for them except see that they got a job." Acting as spokesman for the dismissed players, Robinson last night issued a statement saying they had come to the university "on scholarships with the understanding that if we played football they would take care of us."

"It's always understood," he continued, "that if you go away to play football you will be well taken care of."

Decision over Johnny Dettlaff, Milwaukee, 149, in four rounds. Martin Frank, Milwaukee, 167, was awarded the decision over Eddie Besmer, Minneapolis, 173, after four rounds.

WILDCATS HOPE ILLINI WILL WIN FROM WOLVERINES

Northwestern Doesn't Meet Wolves and May Tie for Season's Title

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO—(P)—The very best wishes of Northwestern's Wildcats will accompany Illinois and Purdue Saturday in their football endeavors against Michigan and Wisconsin, respectively.
Northwestern is reasonably confident of getting through its Big Ten schedule undefeated, but fears that Michigan, which does not meet, will do the same thing unless the Illini win at Ann Arbor Saturday, thus, theoretically, doing the Wildcats out of an undisputed title.
Coach Dick Hanley's eleven will meet Wisconsin Nov. 15, but would like to see Purdue slow up the surprising Badgers. Minnesota also is undefeated, but Northwestern figures to take care of the Gophers a week from tomorrow.
While its principal rivals in vigorous tests tomorrow, Northwestern will give its reserves some experience against Centre college. The once famous "Praying Colonels" are not expected to play dead for Northwestern, but the game is a non-conference affair and Coach Hanley is eager to ripen up some of his less experienced players before Wisconsin, Minnesota and Notre Dame are encountered.

BADGERS LOSE PIKE

Training activities in all camps were reduced to the limbering up stage today. Michigan took only a light drill yesterday to prevent further injuries, while Illinois finished its work for the invasion of Michigan, and had traveling on its schedule for today. Wholesale injuries have hampered practice at Chicago, and Coach Stagg early this week decided to let the Mississippi game take care of itself, with Princeton to be met next week.
Purdue and Wisconsin, which meet at Lafayette, wound up preparation in good shape for their important struggle. The Boilermakers did well enough in yesterday's drill to be left off early, while Wisconsin's offense again functioned properly. The Badgers lost another promising halfback when Harry Pike was injured in the final practice, but in spite of an unusual number of disabilities Coach Thisthaave still had enough backs available for duty Saturday.
Notre Dame and Indiana were enroute to the scenes of inter-sectional strife, the Irish having left for Pittsburgh last night, and the Hoosiers having started for Dallas, Texas, at noon yesterday, on the first jump toward their game with Southern Methodist University.
Minnesota, Iowa and Ohio State have open dates which probably will be utilized for practice contests.

IRISH WILL BEAT PITT--STEFFEN

Carnegie Tech Coach Says Notre Dame Has Stronger Team Than Last Year

Chicago—(P)—Pitt's Panthers may expect a beating from Notre Dame tomorrow. Authority for the pick is no less than Judge Walter P. Steffen, Carnegie Tech's commuting football coach.
Not only that, but Judge Steffen believes the 1930 Irish to be stronger than the team which swept through a nine game schedule without defeat last year, basing his judgment on the Skibos' defeat at South Bend last Saturday.
"In my opinion there is no question that Notre Dame has a stronger team than last year's," Steffen said last night. "Perhaps the Irish played over its head against us. Maybe it didn't, but we were no match for Notre Dame, especially in the second period."
"I expect Pitt to give Notre Dame a good battle, but its offense isn't as strong as Notre Dame's. Pitt has a good defense, but so has Notre Dame."

MARQUETTE, RIPON IN STARLIGHT GAME

Milwaukee—(P)—For the first time since 1923, Marquette University and Ripon college football resume relations here tonight. It will be the Hilltoppers' last home twilight affair this season.
The game should result in a top-heavy victory for the Avalanche and Coach Murray figures on killing two birds with one stone. First to defeat Ripon, and second, to try new plays which Marquette expects to use against Boston College Nov. 1.
Montana high school football teams are divided into "A" and "B" classes. An "A" team represents a school with enrollment of 200 or more.

D YOU KNOW THAT
JOE MCCARTHY'S chief reason in going to the Yankees instead of the Boston Red Sox was the possibility of a world series with the Cubs as foes... Detectives have been on the trail of race horse poisoners at Jamaica... Patiently Bert Ingwersen is laboring to rebuild the great grid machine at Iowa that was wrecked on the grade crossing of Big Ten purity... But's legs have been taking it on the chin with heart-breaking regularity, but But is looking ahead... and he has a couple of twins named Jenevold, a halfback named Hickman and a fullback named Warrington who display symptoms of becoming football players... meantime the merchants of Iowa City are exhibiting placards in the windows, saying "Back the team."

STADIUM BOSSES CUT PRICES FOR NOV. 6 CARD

Chicago—(P)—Hopeful of coaxing more trade through its turnstiles, the Chicago Stadium has jugged its price list to provide more of the less expensive seats, for its Nov. 6 show which will feature ten rounders between King Levinsky and Jimmy Slattery, and Otto Von Porat and Jack Renault.
The same old $5.99 top will rule for ringside chairs, but the entire first and second balconies will be scaled down to $2 and $1, respectively, providing nearly 11,000 seats at those prices.
Sidney N. Strotz, president and general manager of the Stadium corporation decided on the revision following the Al Singer-Eddie Mack bout, from which many persons were absent. The less expensive seats, and the ringside locations were sold out, but the $3.30 seats were passed up in large numbers.

Sports Question Box

Question—Do you think the death of Frankie Campbell will blight the career of Max Behr? How does he rate as a heavyweight?
Answer—Cannot say at this time. Behr has not fought since the unfortunate accident. Others have lived down the death of an opponent. It all depends on the effect such a death has on Behr. He is a promising youngster.
Question—What pay is a pro football player likely to get?
Answer—A hundred dollars a game if he is good and more if he is very good.
Question—To receive credit for winning a game must a pitcher remain in the box a certain number of innings?
Answer—The major leagues make it five innings.

FOUR ALL-AMERICAN GRIDDERS PLAYING WITH RED JACKETS

Opponents of Green Bay Packers Sunday Boast Strong Array of Talent

Green Bay—The Minneapolis Red-jackets boast of more "guaranteed" all-Americans than any other team in the National league. This quartet, George Gibson, Kenneth Hayercraft, and Herb Joesting, all of Minnesota and Nate Barrager from the University of Southern California, will appear in action here against the Green Bay Packers, Sunday afternoon, at the City Stadium.
Of the Gophers' "Big Four," Joesting is probably the most famous, because he was twice selected in 1925 and 1927, as an all-American full back. In his college days, Joesting was the greatest line plunger in the country and he has been going pretty well on the professional gridiron although he has found the postgraduate lines considerably harder to nangle. Joesting is 25 years old, weighs 192 pounds and is an inch over six feet in height.
BARRAGER GREAT CENTER
Nate Barrager from California has broken into the pro game with a bang. This is his first year out of college yet he is playing so well that he stands a good chance to win all-American professional honors. Barrager gave the Packers no end of trouble in the battle last Sunday in Minneapolis. He weighs 210 pounds and is 6.1 in height. Barrager is 23 years old.
George Gibson is another Minnesota all-American. He plays guard for the Redjackets and also doubles as coach of the team. "Gibby" was a unanimous all-American selection in 1926. Last season, he served under "Doc" Spears as line coach at the University of Minnesota. Gibson has spent a lot of time on the Redjackets' forward wall and it ranks as one of the best in the country. The Minneapolis leader is 24 years old, weighs 210 pounds and stands an even six feet.

HAYCRAFT A LAWYER
Ken Hayercraft was one of the greatest ends ever developed at Minnesota. He was a team-mate of Gibson at the Gopher institution making the all-Western team in 1927 and followed this up in 1928 by being a choice for one of the wing berths on the all-American. Hayercraft is a savage tackler and good pass receiver. This is his second year in the pro game. Between football seasons, he practices law in Minneapolis. Hayercraft is a 175-pounder. He is 23 years old and is six feet tall.
Members of the West Point football team, along with the rest of the Cadets, must get up at 5:30 o'clock in the morning.

Chapter 29
A CONFESSION
AND you know some other things too. Right?" prompted Thorne softly. The butler nodded. "Then why not go to Mr. Winslow?" questioned Thorne curiously. For the first time Lambert did not look directly at the detective.

"The ad says to come to you," he pointed out. "Besides, Mrs. Winslow wouldn't let her husband give me any money, if she could help it." The man passed his tongue over his lips. "She's not generous and, though she pretends to be fond of Mr. Jack, she really hates him." Seeing the unbelief in Thorne's expression, Lambert added hastily: "Oh, I can prove what I say, but on one condition..."

"I don't bargain, Lambert," retorted Thorne with stern emphasis. "Say what you have to say quickly or leave." Lambert hesitated. "At least promise to leave my name out of the Hills-Mercer stock brokerage affair," he pleaded, in genuine agitation. "It will kill my chances of another place if they found I played the ponies and the stock market. I don't know how you got wise to my being in with the bucket-shop gang; just keep it to yourself, sir, and you can have all of this 'ere reward."

Thorne sprang up. "Get out, Lambert," he ordered, throwing open the door; but the butler stood his ground. "If not for my sake, promise for the sake of young Miss Chase," he begged, his watchful eyes trying to read his companion's face. "I've seen you looking at her when she wasn't noticing. God knows, she needs a friend."

Thorne paused. Lambert had with unerring instinct advanced the one plea he could not refuse. "Go ahead, Lambert," he directed. "But recollect, I make no promises, and if you lie to me," his firm mouth closed ominously, "I'll make you suffer for it. Where is Jack Winslow?" Lambert came closer, and uninvited, took a chair at Thorne's elbow. "On an old canal boat, the 'Jenny Wren,' above 'Great Fall.' The butler spoke rapidly, casting frequent, uneasy glances over his shoulder. "The old couple who own the boat are devoted to Mr. Jack; he befriended their only son. The boat is berthed in the canal beyond Lock Tavern Club. I know," with more emphasis, noticing Thorne's skeptical air, "because I went with him when he took the things from his workshop to the boat."

"And why did he do that?" Lambert shook his head. "I'm not sure," he admitted evasively. "I've smuggled them into Mr. Jack's car that night, Tuesday, I mean, and I brought the car back to the garage without Peter, the chauffeur, being any the wiser."

"And the other servants, didn't they see you taking the things away in the car?" "I doped their food at supper; oh, not to hurt, but by eleven o'clock they were all asleep, dead to the world, and Inspector Mitchell didn't have any one watching Oaklands then, so we got off unseen."

Thorne leaned forward. "How about Ferguson? He doesn't sleep in the house?" "No, but he eats there, and he got his share of dope along with the rest," Lambert laughed mirthlessly. "The dirty dog!"

"You don't speak admiringly of your coworker," commented Thorne, dryly. "Jealous, eh?" "Of him? Say, what are you talking about? The scorn in the man's voice was unmistakable and Thorne's eyes twinkled. "That lobster! Why, he wouldn't have been kept on but that Dr. Kane recommended him to Mrs. Winslow."

Thorne smothered his surprised ejaculation. Lambert was, indeed, telling him news. "So Ferguson knew Dr. Kane in the past?" He stroked his chin while never removing his gaze from Lambert. "Did he see the doctor privately on Monday night?"

"No, sir," Lambert spoke with positiveness. "Only when the doctor was dead. You remember, he found the body lying on the ground."

"Why did Jack Winslow attack his uncle on Tuesday afternoon?" "No lies," striking the desk a resounding blow with his fist.

"They quarreled over Miss Chase; at least that's the part I overheard," mumbled Lambert. "I--I was passing and--and the door was open and they were both loud-spoken. Mr. Jack was broken up about it, when he came to his senses."

"Oh, so Mr. Jack has brain storms, has he?" Lambert nodded sorrowfully. "Take his father before him, sir, I understand. Mr. Jack reeled out of the den and begged me to help him get away. I suspect," speaking in a confidential whisper, "Mr. Jack thought he'd choked his uncle to death."

"Lambert," the detective spoke slowly, impressively, "was it before this scene with his uncle or after it that he arranged with you to get his belongings out of his workshop in the attic?"

"Before, sir," the response was spoken with the promptness of truth.

"And why," Thorne leaned closer in his eagerness, "did not Jack Winslow take his personal belongings with him--his clothes, apparently he left without even a tooth brush."

"He had a bag full of things on the canal boat already," he swiftly, "for a quick get-away." Lambert, your words imply premeditated murder."

"They don't neither," protested the butler hotly. "You're putting words in my mouth I didn't say. That there bag's been on the canal boat for a month or more. Mr. Jack's, very fond of fishing and canoeing and he used to sleep on board the Jenny Wren sometimes when fishing late, and the boat was down this way."

"Did Mr. Jack see Miss Chase before leaving Oaklands Tuesday afternoon?" he asked.

"No, sir," forestalling further questioning, the butler added swiftly. "Mr. Jack wasn't in shape to see any one, least of all his sweetheart. He told me to tell her she would hear from him in a day or so and not to worry."

"You gave her that message?" "I did."

"Did you tell her that Mr. Jack had gone?" "No," Lambert supplemented the gruff monosyllable in some haste, reading the scorn in Thorne's eyes. "Mr. Jack said he would write her where he was and full particulars how to get to him."

"Did he do so?" Lambert nodded. "The note came last night, under cover of one to me."

"And you gave that note to Miss Chase?" persisted Thorne, sternly. Again the butler averted his eyes. "I was in the devil's own hurry to get away," he admitted, swallowing hard. "Then, too, Miss Chase had made me mad--"

"Ha, in what way?" The detective was watching his companion as a cat watches a mouse, ready to spring. "You tried to extort money--his jaw shot out--you cut?"

Lambert winced. "She gave me money of her own free will," he whined. "Twasn't that. She's been trying to prejudice Mr. Winslow against me, and get me fired."

"And so you held back Mr. Jack's note?" "No, I didn't, exactly. But I left it on my pillow for Lucy to take to her next morning. She has it by now."

Thorne shook his head. "Lucy preferred to have Mrs. Winslow see it first," he announced softly. With a bound Lambert gained his feet, his face livid. "By--she double crossed me! The lying...!" He raved on for a moment, curses rippling from his lips. "Lucy's beaten me to the reward by giving Mr. Jack's address to Mrs. Winslow."

For a minute the two men stared at each other; then Thorne also sprang up.

"Perhaps she has, but I'll see Jack Winslow first," and before the butler could gather his scattered wits, Thorne was out of the office and in his car.

Will Thorne get there in time? He meets with a new surprise on board the canal boat in tomorrow's chapter.

PLAN DEDICATION OF LEGION PARK ON SUNDAY, NOV. 9

Ed Hass Heads Arrangements Committee Appointed by Post

Kaukauna—Dedication of the Legion park and wall on Oak-st will take place on Sunday Nov. 9, Dole Andrews, post commander of Kaukauna American Legion, announced Thursday. Plans for the dedication will be completed early next week. Ed Hass is chairman of the arrangements committee. A prominent speaker will be secured. Leg. park was completed last summer when grass and shrubbery was planted. It is one of the beauty spots of the city. The strip of land comprising Legion park was made possible two years ago when the local post built a large stone wall along the rapids from the Wisconsin-ave bridge to the Law-st bridge. The wall averages about six and a half feet high and much grass and shrubbery has been planted. The wall is approximately 600 feet long and is about three and a half feet wide. All the work was done by Legion men.

Construction of the wall was started several years ago by Legionnaires, who turned out every Sunday for two summers to do the work. The Legion undertook to build the wall after the city decided not to do the work. Ed Hass was the post commander at the time and most of the wall was built under his supervision. The wall was completed after Arthur Schmalz was elected commander.

KAUKAUNA ELEVEN TO MEET GILLET

Coach Little Hopes to Use Number of Substitutes in Game

Kaukauna—Kaukauna high school gridders will play their fourth Northwestern Wisconsin interscholastic conference football game at the Kaukauna hall park Saturday afternoon against Gillett. This is the first time the two schools will have met on the gridiron.

It is the second and last home game of the season. The Orange and Black gridders have one more game to play. That is with Menasha. The game with Gillett is expected to be more or less of a practice game for the fighting Kaws and Coach P. Little will not use more of the first team than necessary in order to save them for the Menasha fracas, which is considered one of the hardest on the Kaws schedule. Shawano was rated to be the strongest opponent for the local team this year, but they proved to be over-rated and the Kaws ran away with them.

Gillett has been having a hard time this season and has lost several games. Coach Little gave his first string gridders a rest Monday and Tuesday, but had them back in harness Wednesday. He does not want to be caught sleeping and will be ready with the team if the Gillett men show any signs of strength. Seymour, which took a 22 to 0 defeat from Kaukauna, defeated Gillett 13 to 0.

The starting line-up has not been announced, but it probably will have consisted of center, Johnson and Seggink at guards, Bodde and Nushardt at tackles, Lundtke and Koch at ends, Judae at quarterback, Kemp and Noie at half backs and Haupt at fullback.

Wisc. Mother's Lucky Find

WHEN we find that some slight adjustment makes a marvelous improvement in a child we wonder why we hadn't thought before to give the child this help.

A good example is the experience of Mrs. Charles Davis, 122 Fifth St., Milwaukee. She says: "My little girl was doing fairly well but I noticed she didn't eat like she should and didn't seem to have much energy. 'I wanted to do something for her, and I read a lot about California Fig Syrup, so I gave her some. She improved so much I wonder why I didn't do something for her stomach and bowels before. It relieved her sluggishness, gave her a good appetite and plenty of energy.'"

To point up a child's appetite, increase energy and strength, assist digestion and assimilation, there's nothing more effective than pure vegetable California Fig Syrup. Doctors advise its use to open the bowels during colds and children's diseases, or whenever bad breath, coated tongue, headaches, listlessness, etc., warn of constipation.

The genuine always bears the name California. So look for that when buying. At all drugstores.

MILK FLOW LARGER AROUND BONDUEL, FARMERS REMINDED

Organization of Cooperative Marketing Group Advised by Expert

BY W. F. WINSEY

Bonduel—Within a radius of 10 miles of Bonduel, the flow of milk is larger than in any other equal area of Wisconsin and it will, if concentrated support the largest milk plant in the state, according to Math Walrick who spoke at a booster meeting of the Badger Consolidated Cooperative, here Wednesday night. The Badger is only county-wide farmers' cooperative milk marketing agency in Wisconsin and now in process of organization.

"As you have the milk and the marketing agency, is there any reason why you should not market your milk cooperatively and succeed," inquired Mr. Walrick.

Over 700 of the required 1,000 Badger Consolidated Cooperative contracts already have been signed by dairy men of the county and the balance and more probably will be signed in another week.

Twelve volunteers divided into four groups headed by County Agent G. F. Baumelster, and James Gwinn representing the state Department of Agriculture and Markets are conducting a membership drive this week in the towns of Belle Plain, Richmond, Waukechon and Holland and the farmers are responding eagerly.

According to the plans of the cooperative, flexible milk plants will be established at Mattoon, Wittenberg, Tigerton, Bonduel and a large central plant at Shawano. The marketing will be done through the National Cheese Producers' Federation. Financial assistance will be given by the federal farm board.

REPORTS ON SURVEY
At the Wednesday night meeting, Mr. Baumelster represented a synopsis of the milk survey of Shawano county made by representatives of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture. "The federal farm board has appropriated $500,000,000 to assist farmers in the cooperative marketing of their products," Mr. Gwinn said. "The farm board will supply the Badger Consolidated one-half of funds needed to do its proposed milk-marketing business."

"The Caldwell bill passed by the last legislature makes it imperative for the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture to go out and assist farmers in setting up cooperative marketing institutions and we are here to assist the farmers of Shawano county who have taken the initiative."

"The Department of Agriculture and Markets, the federal farm board and the National Cheese Producers' Federation have gone over the plans of the Badger Consolidated and have approved the plans. There is no cause for failure unless boneheads are elected as directors of the Badger cooperative."

"The eagerness of you farmers to market your own dairy products may be explained by the fact that you are now getting 15 cents a pound for your cheese and I am as a consumer paying 40 cents per pound for it."

"To make more money, the farmer must shorten his way to market"

make use of the byproducts of his dairy, and get a larger part of the price of the consumer is paying. Fifty per cent to the why in Shawano is wasted and at Mattoon the factories are paying farmers to truck the whey away and to dump it. In some parts of the county farmers are paying 20 cents per hundred pounds for trucking their milk.

"The farmer has been advised to grow two blades of grass where one grew before. What is meant is to cut down the number of our cows and to get the same total of milk from the cows that remain."

"The cross roads' cheese factory is doomed. We can see the hand writing on the wall. Why are Chicago people coming up into Shawano to get their milk? They are coming here because they can get milk cheaper than in the Chicago dairy district. The consumers in Chicago are paying as much for your milk as for milk produced by the milk-marketing organization of farmers in the Chicago district."

"Recently the price of cheese dropped. Why? Because the price that farmers get for fluid milk is based on the price of cheese and the dealers wanted to buy fluid milk a little more cheaply."

"Some farmers object to joining the Badger consolidated cooperative because they fear the salaries of the officers will be higher than they can pay. Do these fearful farmers know the size of the salaries they have been paying for years to the officers and directors of the big milk plants?"

R. R. Smith, fieldman of the National Cheese Producers' Federation described the relation of the federation to the Badger Consolidated Cooperative, and Mr. Walrick stated and described the financial, building and management plans of the Badger cooperative in detail.

The Badger Consolidated Cooperative will open up for business early in November.

PUBLIC DOESN'T KNOW ABOUT MISSIONS, CLAIM

Madison—(P)—The American public, would commend the work of foreign missionaries if it understood the work they are doing, Dr. Fred R. Goodsell, Boston, told the delegates to the 121st annual meeting of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions here Thursday.

"People generally in America, including, unfortunately, a great majority of those who are personally deeply interested in what the church stands for in the community, simply do not realize how far ahead of ordinary ideas about missions the actual principles and practice of foreign missions have gone," he said. Dr. Edward W. Wilder, medical missionary in Hadura, India, said that the need for medical education is so great in India that "nothing the country can do in 80 or 100 years will meet it." Approximately 90 per cent of the people in the villages of India are unable to secure proper medical care, he said.

The American College, Madura, India, is exercising an intellectual, moral and spiritual influence on the students within its walls James M. Alice T. Huggins, Topeka, Kansas,

"After suffering some time from a bad cold my nose became unusually red and sore. I tried various ointments and salves without obtaining a bit of relief. I didn't have much confidence that Resinol Ointment would be any better but tried it anyway and all I can say is it worked wonders. My hands also were so chapped they cracked and almost bled. They were in such bad condition I could not hold anything. However, thanks to your Resinol Ointment they are now healed." (Signed) Mrs. Janet Gilmore, Philadelphia, Pa.

LITTLE SET BIG THING IN RADIO AT PRESENT TIME

Midget Receivers Sweeping Nation Just Like Tom Thumb Golf

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press
Washington (CPA)—The little set is the big thing in radio today.

Midget receivers, which made their debut only last spring, have swept not only this nation, but other nations. They prevail at the radio shows now being held generally throughout the country coincident with the arrival of "radio season."

The industry estimates that some 600,000 of the miniature sets will be sold this year, or something like one-fourth of the total estimated set sales.

Forty-four companies are manufacturing midgets, following the lead of a Pacific coast manufacturer who evidently got his idea from Tom Thumb, golf courses, pint-sized automobiles and other things miniature. At the London radio show the midget sets are preponderant, just as they are at the Chicago radio show, one of the biggest radio exhibits in radio history which is holding sway this week.

Powell, Crosley, Jr., president of the Crosley Radio Corporation, and a leading figure in the industry, believes the midget set has solved one of the big home radio problems.

"A radio receiving set for every member of the family" is his slogan and one that has been adopted by the entire industry.

Manufacturers in the past have stressed the value of extension loud speakers connected with the set itself, so that reception could be had all over the house at will. But with the midget set so low-priced, they have changed their tune.

"With midget receivers it is no longer necessary to become involved in complicated wiring or other troubles associated with connecting loud speakers upstairs and down with a single receiver," Crosley stated.

"It's much easier to install a midget in the living room, another in the kitchen and a third upstairs.

"Then dad can hear the baseball scores, while the children tune in the bedtime stories and the young folks have dance music.

"The interesting thing about it all is that not only can four present day midget receivers be installed in the space formerly occupied by a single set, but the four put together cost about what one set of similar efficiency cost three or four years ago."

In the export field radio manufacturers have a lucrative field for mid-get sets. The small model meets the pocket-book of European listeners.

KOHLER FIRM DEFENDS RIGHT OF REPARATION

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—Defending its right to receive the award of reparation for alleged excessive freight charges, proposed in a report made by Examiner Peterson of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Kohler Company of Kohler, Wis., has replied to the defending railroads' exceptions to the report.

Under Examiner Peterson's report, it agreed to by the Commission, the Kohler company will get a refund of $168.96 for excessive rates charged on shipments of mixed carloads of plumbers' goods to Dallas, Texas, from Sheboygan, and it will not be required to pay additional charges asked by the railroads for similar shipments to Abilene, Pampa, and Houston, Tex.

In a brief recently filed by the railroads objecting to the Peterson report, they argued that the Kohler case should have been consolidated with two others, which involved the same issues.

Replying to this argument, the Kohler company now asserts that the issues are not the same in the three cases, and asks that the Commission disregard the request for consolidation. It then brings forward other cases, decided favorably with reparation awards, which it considers applicable and similar to its own case. It repeats its request for reparation and asserts that the amount may be decided by the Commission on any basis it considers reasonable.

GANGMAN GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE FOR MURDER

Detroit—(AP)—Philip Keywell, the first of Detroit's notorious Purple gang to receive a major prison term in state court, was sentenced to life in the Michigan State prison for murder Thursday.

Keywell was sentenced in record-ers' court for the slaying of Arthur Mixon, a 19-year-old Negro woman, on July 23, near a whiskey cutting plant in an alley, which Keywell was said to have been operating.
Keywell had been tried twice on the charge.

Keywell was arrested in Chicago for investigation in connection with the St. Valentine's day massacre of 1929. He was later released.
